Faure Girds For Algerian Policy Battle

Paris Police Seize Scores Of African Terrorist Suspects

PARIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—French authorities cracked down today on North African troublemakers in Paris. The move came as Premier Edgar Faure, fresh from victory in a National Assembly battle on his Moroccan policy, girded for another test this week on Algeria.

Sweeping through North African quarters of this capital, police took 915 persons into custody for questioning about recent disturbances in Paris and terrorist activities in North Africa. They said 50 of the group had police records here and 25 others were wanted by Algerian authorities.

The arrests came as hundreds of North African nationalists demonstrated in various other French cities.

At Douai, near the Belgian frontier, two North Africans were killed and five others injured when police broke up a crowd.

Faure Wins 477-140

At St. Etienne, 300 collected in the center of the city. One police officer was killed.

Several hundred other North Africans massed or marched in Lyon, Lille and Metz, but there were no serious incidents.

The Algerian debate this week finds Faure battered but unbeaten after an extended parliamentary battle over his Moroccan program.

Through a completely unpredictable series of last minute political developments, Faure amassed a surprising 477-140 majority for his reform plan to end the widespread guerrilla activity in Morocco. But many of the deputies who backed him were unsparing in their criticism of the way he has permitted the program to get stalled.

Mandate For Speed

In effect, the vote was a mandate from the Assembly to get moving quickly. The Premier has insisted France would lose prestige in the eyes of the world unless the deputies finished off the three-day debate with a positive program for meeting demands of the Moroccan nationalists.

The outcome clearly reflected the wishes of the deputies to bring an end to the French do-nothing attitude toward the North African protectorate, where violence has been on the rise for years. Faure is the first Premier to present the Assembly a precise plan which might give the nationalist aspirations enough satisfaction to ease tensions.

Bendix Workers Vote Strike End

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9 (AP)—Employees of the Bendix Radio Division voted today to accept a company offer, which includes a 12-cent hourly wage increase in two bites, and end their 39-day strike.

An estimated 1,700 members of Radio Lodge 1,561, International Assn. of Machinists (AFL), accepted the offer during a meeting in Baltimore Coliseum. The vote was 1,241 to 415.

The 3,200 workers who struck six plants in the Baltimore area Sept. 1 will report for work tomorrow.

Peter Stuart, AFL international representative, said only "minor economic improvement was granted by the company under the settlement terms."

He said, "The basic issue of guaranteed annual wage (a layoff pay plan) or the equivalent in direct monetary wage gains was not gained in the new contract."

The contract will run for two years until Sept. 1, 1957, and will not be reopenable on any issue, he said.

Harriman Has 'No Obligation' To Back Adlai

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman, previously a strong backer of Adlai Stevenson, said today he has "no obligation" and is "not at all morally bound" to support Stevenson at the Democratic national convention next year.

Harriman disclaimed any presidential aspirations of his own, but said he does not believe that a man 64 years old (his own age) is too old to serve as president.

"It is not for me to say at this time whom I would support next year," he added.

Backed Stevenson In 1952

The New York governor said that although he supported Stevenson in the 1952 campaign against President Eisenhower, it does not mean that he intends to continue that support at the party's convention.

"I am for Adlai, but I never said I would support him in a convention," Harriman said.

Harriman, speaking on the CBS television program, "Face The Nation," also asserted that he does not intend to enter any presidential primaries next year. He said he would be too busy as governor to "take time off from that job to enter the primaries."

As governor of New York, Harriman added, he could no longer speak as an individual with respect to the Democratic convention, because he would be "part of a parcel of the Democratic delegation from New York to the convention."

He said he would consult with other members of the New York State delegation to decide later who would be the best candidate for the Democratic party.

Shortly after Harriman spoke, former President Harry S. Truman arrived in town. He had been an overnight guest Friday of Harriman at the Executive Mansion in Albany.

Upon his arrival at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, newsmen told Truman of Harriman's statement. Said Truman:

"That's Gov. Harriman's business. I made it clear up there (in Albany) that I am as neutral as a man could possibly be in my position."

"I said it in Albany and I'll say it now: 'I'm making no choice until the convention. I'll back the nominee.'"

Crowd At Chicago Protests Shooting Of Motorist By Cop

Some 60 policemen were summoned to break up the demonstration at 13th St. between Kedzie and Sawyer avenues on the West Side. Twelve persons were seized and held without charge for questioning.

Policeman Jesse Brown, 23, Negro, said he fired when the motorist grabbed his badge and tried to reach Brown's revolver. Brown said he had ordered him to move his auto, which was blocking traffic.

1,000 More PWs Freed By Soviet Reach Germany

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP)—Three trains carrying more than 1,000 prisoners of war reached West Germany today. Among the men were 30 former generals and a son of the Krupp armament family.

The arrivals brought the total of German prisoners released by the Soviet Union since last Thursday to 1,741. Nearly 8,000 more are expected within the next few days.

The 30 ex-generals, accompanied by two sergeant orderlies, arrived at the West German frontier in a one-sleeper special train. Two freight trains brought home 1,000 lesser ranking prisoners. The men on the freight train said they had gone hungry the last two days of their nine-day trip.

One of the officers, Gen. Herman Niehoff, 71, who surrendered to the Russians after a siege of 3½ months in the closing days of World War II, said the Soviets broke a written promise to free him and all his troops at the end of the war.

The Krupp family member is Lt. Li. Harald Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, 39, who arrived at the frontier in a freight car packed with 25 other former inmates of a Soviet labor camp. His elder brother, Alfred, got back more than 150 million dollars worth of confiscated Krupp enterprises in 1951 after the U. S. government commuted his war crimes sentences. Two other brothers died fighting in Russia.

Tampico Is Alarmed As New Storm Forms

TAMPICO, Mexico, Oct. 9 (AP)—Reports of a new tropical storm alarmed this flood-stricken Gulf port today.

Flood waters have dropped five feet since they reached the record high of 20 feet above the flood stage last week. The lowering of the waters permitted some of the thousands of refugees to return to their homes.

Pentagon Is Hit For 'Misleading' Contract Data

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Senate investigators sharply criticized the Defense Department today for what they called "misleading information" and multimillion dollar errors in its reports on the nation's 100 largest defense contractors.

Calling for an overhaul of the Pentagon reports in this field, the Senate document said Congress and the public are entitled to "a complete and accurate picture of these awards."

The blistering report was prepared by the staff of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee and signed by Chairman Lyndon B. Johnston of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Report System Changed

From 1951 to early in 1954 the Defense Department issued reports every six months on the 100 largest defense contractors on a cumulative basis since 1950. The department stopped them more than a year ago in an economy move.

Early this year the Senate Banking Committee and a House Small Business Committee asked that the reports be brought up to date. The department then issued a new type report covering an 18-month period from July 1953 to December 1954.

The Senate preparedness group, a branch of the Armed Services Committee, complained that this "inconsistently" eliminated the cumulative totals and presented a distorted picture.

For example, it said, General Motors and 44 other big defense contractors were missing from the new list, chiefly because cutbacks and cancellations in their contracts largely offset new orders.

GM Back On Top

The Senate group then called for data to continue the former system of reporting and compiled its own list of the 100 largest defense contractors. On a basis of cumulative totals since 1950 its list showed General Motors again at the top.

The Senate investigators said defense officials listed a 398-million-dollar error in the General Motors totals, an error of nearly 140 million dollars in contracts with Kaiser Motors Corp., and errors ranging from more than 1 to 39 million dollars for other contractors.

The Weather Bureau said the new storm was forming off the coast just south of Tampico. It forecasts high winds and heavy rains. The rains are the principal threat.

Flood waters have dropped five feet since they reached the record high of 20 feet above the flood stage last week. The lowering of the waters permitted some of the thousands of refugees to return to their homes.

Valet Says He Witnessed Burning Of Hitler's Body

Officials Defer Plans To Reopen Struck Foundry

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—Officials of Perfect Circle Corp. today promised Gov. George N. Craig not to attempt tomorrow morning to re-open the New Castle foundry where eight union sympathizers and nonstrikers were shot and wounded last Wednesday.

The governor made an implied threat to impose martial law on the eastern Indiana industrial city if necessary to avoid further violence at the piston ring foundry.

Both company officials and the striking CIO United Auto Workers agreed to maintain the status quo pending another session with the governor at noon tomorrow.

Company Alters View

A company spokesman said Perfect Circle first felt that "status quo" meant it could go ahead with its plans to reopen tomorrow morning. The management decided, however, not to try re-opening until after tomorrow's meeting.

After the meeting, UAW spokesman Raymond Berndt told reporters that the union felt bound by its promise to the governor not to augment its five-man picket line at Perfect Circle tomorrow morning, whether or not the company tries to open the plant.

At that time, a company official had said, the plant still intended to re-open.

Statement Countermanded

Later, however, the company countermanded this statement and a spokesman said:

"We are withholding plans to re-open the plant until after the noon meeting."

Gov. Craig met the disputants in his ornate executive office.

He reminded both parties that in conferences some weeks ago he had warned that the strike must not result in injury to innocent persons. But since then, he added, "The conduct of the disagreement has resulted in a definite threat to the peace of the community and the state."

Turncoat Faces Military Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9 (AP)—Military trial was ordered today for Otto G. Bell, former soldier charged with collaborating with the enemy and other offenses while a prisoner of war in Communist North Korea.

He and two other turncoats, William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga., and Lewis W. Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex., are the three men who, after originally casting their lot with Red China when other U. S. prisoners were returned, later decided they preferred the U. S. and were released by the Communists.

Bell, 24, originally from Mississippi, will be court-martialed at a date which has not yet been set. Preliminary investigations in the cases of Cowart and Griggs are continuing.

The Communists drew 18,229 (2.99); the Refugee Party 10,570 (2.99); and the Pro-Communist Assn. of Germans 3,986 (1.1).

One Of Movies' First Glamour Queens Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9 (AP)—Alice Joyce, 65, one of the movies' first glamour queens, died today after illness with a heart ailment.

A reigning beauty of the silent era, Miss Joyce was hospitalized a year ago with a serious liver illness.

She formerly was married to actor Tom Moore, one of the silent screen's famous Moore brothers, and Director Clarence Brown, the man who filmed many of Greta Garbo's pictures.

Miss Joyce was born in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1, 1890, and made her first screen appearance in the oldtime hit, "The Lion and The Mouse."

Later, her performance in "Stella Dallas," went down in screen history as one of the great tear-inducing performances of all time.

Other hits included "Beau Geste," "Green Goddess," and "Dancing Mothers."

CALLS FOR PROBE — Sen. Humphrey (above), Minnesota Democrat, yesterday accused the Agriculture Department of issuing "pure political propaganda" and called for a Senate investigation of what he termed an "amazing document" issued by the agency. Meanwhile, political associates of Humphrey have started a campaign to make him a major contender for the Democratic vice presidential nomination next year.

Bauer told newsmen at West Germany's Camp Friedland earlier he was in the bunker the day Hitler committed suicide—April 20, 1945. Said Bauer:

Linge Carried Out Body

"I left the apartment and returned to it two hours later, but without entering it. I learned then that while I was gone, Hitler had killed himself. But I did not see his body or Eva Braun's body."

But Linge said he did. He said he carried Hitler's body into the shell-traded garden which lay above the bunker. Hitler's chauffeur was to bring up Eva Braun's body, but failed.

"It was too heavy for him," Linge smiled. He said Hitler's SS adjutant, Otto Guensche, finally managed to get the body out of the bunker.

Linge thus became the first man to give the world an eyewitness account of the Fuehrer's fiery end.

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 9 (AP)—Rescue teams ended the third day of the dawn-to-dusk search for 66 persons killed in a United Air Lines DC4 crash on Medicine Bow Peak last Thursday morning.

UAL officials at the scene, about 40 miles west of here, brought down 24 bodies today, making a total of 36 of the 56 sighted now at a temporary morgue six miles below the death area.

Secretary of Air Donald Quarles referred to that possibility in an address prepared for dedication of a new Strategic Air Command base here, which will be home for a B47 bomber wing and a B47 reconnaissance wing.

Gasoline Used For Cremation

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's personal valet said today he helped pour gasoline over the body of the dead Fuehrer and watched it burn outside a Berlin air raid shelter 10 years ago. The roaring blaze also consumed the body of Eva Braun, the Dictator's long-time mistress and bride of one day.

The story of Heinz Linge, who returned last night from a decade of Soviet captivity, was the first eyewitness account of Hitler's death.

With the previous report by Hitler's personal pilot, SS Gen. Hans Baur, that he knew the two were dead, it should remove any lingering question of whether Hitler may still be alive.

(The Air Force uses several bomber types for long range reconnaissance, including the older, bigger, piston-jet engine B36 as well as the swift, all-jet B47. Instead of bombs, these planes are outfitted with a variety of cameras, including special types for penetrating camouflage and photographing wide areas of the ground, even at considerable distance.

(Strategic reconnaissance is the gathering of photographic and map evidence of military and war industry capabilities of a country, used in preparing a target list for long range and sustained bombing.

White House Return This Year Unlikely

President To Stay In Hospital Month More, Doctors Say

DENVER, Oct. 9 (AP)—The eminent heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, said today President Eisenhower may get out of the hospital in four or five weeks but it might be the first of the year before he can go back to work at the White House.

Speaking for six of the physicians who are keeping tab on Eisenhower's condition, White said that it is impossible to say at this time whether it would be physically possible for Eisenhower to run for a second term next year.

This is so, White said, because it is too early to know for sure whether the chief executive will make a complete recovery.

White talked to newsmen at the temporary White House after a series of weekend medical examinations of the chief executive. The news conference, which outlined plans for gradually increasing presidential activity, of a personal and official nature, also followed two meetings between Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Complications Now Unlikely

Nixon said Eisenhower had asked, and the doctors have approved, a schedule to bring more Cabinet officers and more officials to Denver in the next few weeks.

Eisenhower completed yesterday the first two weeks of recuperation since his heart attack, the period of greatest danger. Asked whether it can be said now the chief executive is out of danger, Dr. White replied quietly, "not 100 per cent."

The elderly Boston physician said that there had been no complications to date and complications rarely occur after the second week of a coronary thrombosis. And in the President's case, he said, complications now are "unlikely."

White outlined a program doctors have set for the chief executive for the next six weeks and said that the President "accepted the program graciously" and asked the doctors not to rush his treatment.

"He does not," White said, "wish to be carried out on his plane even if by so doing he might get away from here earlier."

"Rough Guide"

The program as recommended by White, with offers of the attending physicians nodding approval, goes like this—And White said it is still only a "rough guide":

For the third week of the illness—this week—rest still is advised.

But the President's bed can be moved out on the hospital porch, into the air and sunshine, where he can get a "beautiful view" of the Rocky Mountains.

A conference scheduled for the President with Secretary of State Dulles Tuesday should not last more than 15 minutes, but "this is not going to be a rubber stamp" affair. The President "is going to be allowed to express his opinions."

He will be allowed to sign letters of his own, rather than those that have been prepared for him by others.

If all goes well, there may be another short business conference later in the week.

1,000 More PWs Freed By Soviet Reach Germany

CAMP FRIEDLAND, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP)—Three trains carrying more than 1,000 prisoners of war reached West Germany today.

Among the men were 30 former generals and a son of the Krupp armament family.

The arrivals brought the total of German prisoners released by the Soviet Union since last Thursday to 1,741. Nearly 8,000 more are expected within the next few days.

The 30 ex-generals, accompanied by two sergeant orderlies, arrived at the West German frontier in a one-sleeper special train. Two freight trains brought home 1,000 lesser ranking prisoners. The men on the freight train said they had gone hungry the last two days of their nine-day trip.

One of the officers, Gen. Herman Niehoff, 71, who surrendered Breslau to the Russians after a siege of 3½ months in the closing days of World War II, said the Soviets broke a written promise to free him and all his troops at the end of the war.

The Krupp family member is 1st Lt. Harald Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, 39, who arrived at the frontier in a freight car packed with 25 other former inmates of a Sverdlovsk hard labor camp. His elder brother, Alfred got back more than 150 million dollars worth of confiscated Krupp enterprises in 1951 after the U. S. government commuted his war crimes sentences. Two other brothers died fighting in Russia.

The Weather Bureau said the new storm was forming off the coast just south of Tampico. It forecasts high winds and heavy rains. The rains are the principal threat.

Flood waters have dropped five feet since they reached the record high of 20 feet above the flood stage last week. The lowering of the waters permitted some of the thousands of refugees to return to their homes.

Pentagon Is Hit For 'Misleading' Contract Data

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—Senate investigators sharply criticized the Defense Department today for what they called "misleading information" and multimillion dollar errors in its reports on the nation's 100 largest defense contractors.

Calling for an overhaul of Pentagon reports in this field, the Senate document said Congress and the public are entitled to "a complete and accurate picture of these awards."

The blistering report was prepared by the staff of the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee and signed by Chairman Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Report System Changed
From 1951 to early in 1954 the Defense Department issued reports every six months on the 100 largest defense contractors on a cumulative basis since 1950. The department stopped them more than a year ago in an economy move.

Early this year the Senate Banking Committee and a House Small Business Committee asked that the reports be brought up to date.

The Senate preparedness group, a branch of the Armed Services Committee, complained that this "inconsistent" eliminated the cumulative totals and presented a distorted picture.

For example, it said, General Motors and 44 other big defense contractors were missing from the new list, chiefly because cutbacks and cancellations in their contracts largely offset new orders.

GM Back On Top

The Senate group then called for data to continue the former system of reporting and compiled its own list of the 100 largest defense contractors.

On a basis of cumulative totals since 1950 its list showed General Motors again at the top. The Senate investigators said defense officials listed a 398-million-dollar error in the General Motors totals, an error of nearly 140 million dollars in contracts with Kaiser Motors Corp., and errors ranging from more than 1 to 39 million dollars for other contractors.

Tampico Is Alarmed As New Storm Forms

TAMPICO, Mexico, Oct. 9 (AP)—Reports of a new tropical storm alarmed this flood-stricken Gulf port today.

The Weather Bureau said the new storm was forming off the coast just south of Tampico. It forecasts high winds and heavy rains. The rains are the principal threat.

Flood waters have dropped five feet since they reached the record high of 20 feet above the flood stage last week. The lowering of the waters permitted some of the thousands of refugees to return to their homes.

One Of Movies' First Glamour Queens Dies

She formerly was married to actor Tom Moore, one of the silent screen's famous Moore brothers, and Director Clarence Brown, the man who filmed many of Greta Garbo's pictures.

Miss Joyce was born in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 1, 1890, and made her first screen appearance in the oldtime hit, "The Lion and The Mouse."

Officials Defer Plans To Reopen Struck Foundry

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 9 (AP)—Officials of Perfect Circle Corp. today promised Gov. George N. Craig not to attempt tomorrow morning to re-open the New Castle foundry where eight union sympathizers and nonstrikers were shot and wounded last Wednesday.

The governor made an implied threat to impose martial law on the eastern Indiana industrial city if necessary to avoid further violence at the piston ring foundry.

Both company officials and the striking CIO United Auto Workers agreed to maintain the status quo pending another session with the governor at noon tomorrow.

Company Alters View

A company spokesman said Perfect Circle first felt that "status quo" meant it could go ahead with its plans to reopen tomorrow morning. The management decided, however, not to try re-opening until after tomorrow's meeting.

After the meeting, UAW spokesman Raymond Berndt told reporters that the union felt bound by its promise to the governor not to augment its five-man picket line at Perfect Circle tomorrow morning, whether or not the company tries to open the plant.

At that time, a company official had said, the plant still intended to re-open.

Statement Countermanded

Later, however, the company countermanded this statement and a spokesman said:

"We are withholding plans to re-open the plant until after the noon meeting."

Gov. Craig met the disputants in his ornate executive office.

He reminded both parties that in conferences some weeks ago he had warned that the strike must not result in injury to innocent persons. But since then, he added, "The conduct of the disagreement has resulted in a definite threat to the peace of the community and the state."

Turncoat Faces Military Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9 (AP)—Military trial was ordered today for Otho G. Bell, former soldier charged with collaborating with the enemy and other offenses while a prisoner of war in Communist North Korea.

He and two other turncoats, William A. Cowart, 22, Dalton, Ga., and Lewis W. Griggs, 22, Jacksonville, Tex., are the three men who, after originally casting their lot with Red China when other U. S. prisoners were returned, later decided they preferred the U. S. and were released by the Communists.

Bell, 24, originally from Mississippi, will be court-martialed at a date which has not yet been set. Pretrial investigations in the cases of Cowart and Griggs are continuing.

U. S. District Judge Louis E. Goodman has under consideration a motion to grant the three a writ of prohibition to prevent their trial in military courts. He has not indicated when he will give a ruling.

The Army said it could ask for the death penalty, but will not do so. On order of Lt. Gen. Robert N. Young, commander of the 6th Army, the charges against Bell will be treated as noncapital.

"Nobody could take a bath," she said.

B47s To Make Russia Air Inspection If Reds Agree

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 9 (AP)—The Air Force disclosed today that some of its B47 jet reconnaissance wings would be used to make aerial surveillance of Russia if the Soviet Union agreed to President Eisenhower's proposal for mutual inspection of Russian and U. S. air bases.

Secretary of Air Donald Quarles referred to that possibility in an address prepared for dedication of a new Strategic Air Command base here, which will be home for a B47 bomber wing and a B47 reconnaissance wing.

CALLS FOR PROBE — Sen. Humphrey (above), Minnesota Democrat, yesterday accused the Agriculture Department of issuing "pure political propaganda" and called for a Senate investigation of what he termed an "amazing document" issued by the agency. Meanwhile, political associates of Humphrey have started a campaign to make him a major contender for the Democratic vice presidential nomination next year.

Adenauer Policy Takes Drubbing In Test At Polls

BREMEN, Germany, Oct. 9 (AP)—The West German Socialists, foes of rearmament, trounced Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's three coalition parties today in a Bremen state election testing the popularity of his pro-Western foreign policy.

The Socialists won 47.8 per cent of the popular vote and an absolute majority in the state Parliament, where they have had to share ruling powers in the past with Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

The State Election Bureau announced the Socialists won 52 of the 100 seats at stake, the Christian Democrats 18, the Free Democrats 8, the German party 18 and the Communists 4.

Bonn's membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and plans to build a new West German army were big issues of the election, called to fill 100 seats in the state Parliament.

Voters Spurn Plea
Balloting on a grey, misty day, the voters largely spurned a plea by the Chancellor's Christian Democratic Party to "show the world Bremen also supports Adenauer."

Instead they gave the Socialists, bitter opponents of his policies, the biggest majority the Socialists ever received in this state. At the same time, the voters repudiated Communism and the Nazi-tainted Refugee party.

In the national coalition, the Free Democrats (FDP) and the German Party (DP) are allied with the Christian Democrats.

174,123 For Socialists
Complete returns showed the Socialists polled 174,123 votes. This showing of 47.8 per cent compared with 39 per cent for the Socialists in Bremen in the 1953 national election.

The Christian Democrats received 65,750, or 18 per cent; the German Party 60,557 or 16.6 per cent; the Free Democrats 31,486 or 8.6 per cent.

The Communists drew 18,229 (5 per cent); the Refugee Party 10,570 (2.99); and the Pro-Communist Assn. of Germans 3,986 (1.1).

Gasoline Used For Cremation

BERLIN, Oct. 9 (AP)—Adolf Hitler's personal valet said today he helped pour gasoline over the body of the dead Fuehrer and watched it burn outside a Berlin air raid shelter 10 years ago. The roaring blaze also consumed the body of Eva Braun, the Dictator's long-time mistress and bride of one day.

The story of Heinz Linge, who returned last night from a decade of Soviet captivity, was the first eyewitness account of Hitler's death.

With the previous report by Hitler's personal pilot, SS Gen. Hans Baur, that he knew the two were dead, it should remove any lingering question of whether Hitler may still be alive.

Committed Suicide

Linge told an interviewer that Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide in their underground boudoir in the massive concrete bunker in the chancellery garden. "They were alone..." Linge said. "Hitler shot himself, Eva Braun took poison."

"I carried his body out of the bunker, and then helped pour gasoline over it. We watched it burn for about five minutes."

Bauer told newsmen at West Germany's Camp Friedland earlier he was in the bunker the day Hitler committed suicide—April 20, 1945. Said Bauer:

"I went into Hitler's apartment in the bunker to get my last orders. Hitler said goodbye to me then, remarking that he would now take his own life since the military situation had become hopeless..."

Linge Carried Out Body
"I left the apartment and returned to it two hours later, but without entering it. I learned then that while I was gone, Hitler had killed himself. But I did not see his body or Eva Braun's body."

But Linge said he did. He said he carried Hitler's body into the shell-strewn garden which lay above the bunker. Hitler's chauffeur was to bring up Eva Braun's body, but failed.

White House Return This Year Unlikely

President To Stay In Hospital Month More, Doctors Say

DENVER, Oct. 9 (AP)—The eminent heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, said today President Eisenhower may get out of the hospital in four or five weeks but it might be the first of the year before he can go back to work at the White House.

Speaking for six of the physicians who are keeping tab on Eisenhower's condition, White said that it is impossible to say at this time whether it would be physically possible for Eisenhower to run for a second term next year.

This is so, White said, because it is too early to know for sure whether the chief executive will make a complete recovery.

White talked to newsmen at the temporary White House after a series of weekend medical examinations of the chief executive. The news conference, which outlined plans for gradually increasing presidential activity, of a personal and official nature, also followed two meetings between Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Complications Now Unlikely
Nixon said Eisenhower had asked, and the doctors have approved, a schedule to bring more Cabinet officers and more officials to Denver in the next few weeks.

Eisenhower completed yesterday the first two weeks of recuperation since his heart attack, the period of greatest danger. Asked whether it can be said now the chief executive is out of danger, Dr. White replied quietly, "not 100 per cent."

The elderly Boston physician said that there had been no complications to date and complications rarely occur after the second week of a coronary thrombosis. And in the President's case, he said, complications now are "unlikely."

White outlined a program doctors have set for the chief executive for the next six weeks and said that the President "accepted the program graciously" and asked the doctors not to rush his treatment.

"He does not," White said, "wish to be carried onto his plane even if by so doing he might get away from here earlier."

"Rough Guide"
The program as recommended by White, with others of the attending physicians nodding approval, goes like this—and White said it is still only a "rough guide":

For the third week of the illness—this week—rest still is advised.

But the President's bed can be moved out on the hospital porch, into the air and sunshine, where he can get a "beautiful view" of the Rocky Mountains.

A conference scheduled for the President with Secretary of State Dulles Tuesday should not last more than 15 minutes, but "this is not going to be a rubber stamp" affair. The President "is going to be allowed to express his opinions."

He will be allowed to sign letters of his own, rather than those that have been prepared for him by others.

If all goes well, there may be another short business conference later in the week.

Fourth Week Program
The fourth week—the doctors are going "to get him setting up more each day." At the end of the week he may be "sitting up practically all day," either in bed or in a chair. If all goes well, Eisenhower may begin to do a "little painting."

The fifth week—ordinarily, this is the development in the average case—a few steps will be taken then—"to the bathroom for example." This gradually will be increased without the President's "really walking."

The sixth week—the chief executive should be walking by himself on the porch, walking slowly, on the level, but more and more.

So at the end of the sixth week, White said, "he may walk to the plane depending on circumstances."

Three Area Youths Released In Kidnap Case

Three Maryland youths were freed of kidnapping charges Saturday when 19-year-old Eva M. Keefe testified she left her Pennsylvania home and went with the trio "of my own free will."

The three—James C. Creek, 19, Carl Shook, 25, and Eldridge Leech, 25, were arrested in Hancock on warrants sworn to by the girl's mother, Mrs. Anna Keefe.

Mrs. Keefe, who resides in Pennsylvania just across the Maryland border from Flintstone, told authorities the three men came to her house and took her daughter away at gun point.

State Police in Bedford County forwarded a description of the trio to Maryland State Police at Hancock, who began a search for them. Cpl. Harold Bassore and Trooper Carlton Lewis picked the trio up just before midnight Thursday at the home of Creek's mother in Hancock.

At the time of the arrest the girl was found asleep in the home, while James Creek was asleep in another room of the house. The other two men were found asleep in a car outside the house, police said.

Cpl. Bassore said he found a shotgun and rifle in the car. A number of taverns and the homes of Shook and Leech were checked before the trio was arrested.

Returning to Pennsylvania after waiving extradition, the three men were held in Bedford County Jail overnight. Justice of the Peace Millard Zimmerman Saturday afternoon ordered the three released after the girl testified that she went willingly with the men. The girl denied she was forced at gun point to leave home.

State Police said the shotgun and rifle found were used for hunting. Police said no other charges are being considered.

Well-Known Priest Dies

The Right Rev. Msgr. William Edward Kelly, 64, native of this county, and one of the best known Catholic priests in Maryland, died Saturday at 4:45 p. m. in Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, after a long illness.

Since 1952 he had been pastor of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, 2800 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. E., Washington, one of the largest parishes in the District of Columbia.

Msgr. Kelly was born in Vale Summit on June 29, 1891, the son of William M. Kelly and Jeannette (McMahon) Kelly.

He moved with his family to Cumberland at the age of five years and attended Virginia Avenue School and St. Mary's School.

He carried newspapers in the South End while a school boy. In the fall of 1907, he entered St. Charles College (Minor Seminary), then near Ellicott City, to begin his studies for the priesthood.

Upon graduating from the seminary in 1912, he went to Rome with other American students and studied for five years in North American College. One of his fellow students is the present Archbishop of New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman, and their friendship always remained close.

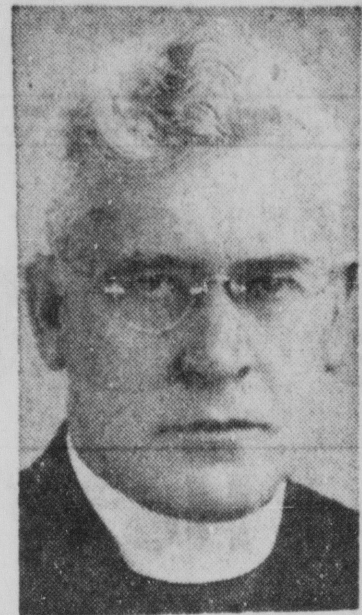

In Rome Msgr. Kelly received his Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Theology Degrees, and he was ordained on December 2, 1917.

Returning to the United States the following August, Msgr. Kelly was assigned as assistant pastor of St. Elizabeth's Church, Baltimore. He served there until June 1925 when he went to St. Peter's Church, Westernport, as assistant pastor.

Two years later, Msgr. Kelly was assigned to St. Peter's Church, Hancock, as pastor and remained there six years.

In June, 1933, he was transferred to St. Francis Church, Brunswick.

DEATHS AND FUNERAL NOTICES

and after four years was assigned to St. John's Church, Westminster. Msgr. Kelly then went to St. Martin's Church in Washington as pastor.

Ten years later, in 1932, Father Kelly received the position of pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, which has approximately 6,000 parishioners and 1,000 children in its school.

About five years ago, while he was pastor of St. Martin's Church, he was made a monsignor with the title of domestic prelate.

For about ten years, Msgr. Kelly had been in ill health, but always maintained his wit and humor. He was several times a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital here.

A keen student of baseball and other sports, Msgr. Kelly this year missed seeing one or more of the World Series games for the first time in 35 years.

When he saw Cleveland and the New York Giants play last year, it was the 34th consecutive year he had been to the World Series. However, this year he had a television set in his hospital room to see the series, although he had tickets.

He followed his school sports in this section and was always well versed on the abilities and records of the various players. He is survived by two brothers, Frank Kelly, Long Island, and John Raymond Kelly, Boston, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Kelly, Washington.

A pontifical requiem mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in St. Francis Xavier Church. Celebrant of the mass will be the Most Rev. Patrick J. O'Boyle, Archbishop of the Diocese of Washington. Interment will be in St. Michaels Cemetery, Frostburg.

THE MEANING OF JUMP-RAISES
WHILE it is true, of course, that players must simply remember the conventional meanings of certain artificial bids (such as the Blackwood four-notrump bid and its various responses), there will be far less burden on sheer memory if the reasons for and logic behind most calls are clearly digested.

Take the matter of a triple raise—as from one spade to four spades. Usually, the best use for this raise is as a shutout against the opponents; but when the player has passed originally, that same triple raise is no longer preemptive; instead, it becomes a very strong call based on some high cards outside of the trump suit. The reason is simple: it has been found that these two methods—preemptive in the one case; good solid values and possible slam material after the original pass—work out best in practice.

All of which leads to a hand: South dealer. East-West vulnerable.

U. S. Permits Use Of Land For Roadway

The county was advised on Friday by the States Roads Commission that the U. S. Department of the Interior has granted permission for the use of certain government land in connection with the construction of the access road into the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company site at North Branch.

The Interior Department placed certain conditions on the permit, mainly that the project be completed before July 1, 1956.

James Alfred Avirett, attorney for the C&A Gas Company, presented a check to the county for $168 as the company's share in repairs to a bridge in the Ellerslie section across Wills Creek. The gas firm supplied the concrete and lumber for the work. The county furnished the balance of the materials and did the work.

Avirett said another bridge, a steel span, which is owned by the gas firm is also in need of repairs. He said he has checked into the law pertaining to responsibility in connection with the bridge and found that the county would be liable in case of an accident. He gave his law reference to Gorman E. Getty, county attorney, for checking.

The commissioners also reported that a meeting will be held Wednesday with the Mayor and Council of Cumberland and Albert H. Hargreaves, director of industrial development for the Chamber of Commerce, on additional water supplies for both the city and county.

Hunter Shoots Self In Leg

Frederick S. Beckley, 3417 Abbe Place, Baltimore, was brought to Memorial Hospital, Saturday, suffering from a gunshot wound in the right leg.

Beckley, who had been hunting, accompanied a group of companions who returned to Seldom Seen Camp, in Green Ridge Forest, for dinner.

After the meal, the victim was target shooting with a .22 caliber pistol. After firing at the target, he walked to it to examine the result of his shooting and slipped on rocky ground, his fall causing the gun to discharge.

The bullet lodged in the calf of the leg after entering below the right knee cap.

Fellow hunters applied a tourniquet to the leg, to reduce the flow of blood, and Game Warden Theodore Thorrig, who was checking cars in the area, brought the victim to the hospital, where X-rays were to be taken to determine the extent of the injury.

States west of the Mississippi account for 62 per cent of America's livestock population.

City To Seek Armory As Main Community Cent

The City of Cumberland would like to have the State Armory as a community center, it was revealed by city officials after a conference with Maryland military officers Saturday in the City Hall.

Mayor Roy W. Eves, said a resolution to be presented to the Council today for approval will urge Governor McKeldin to lend his efforts in bringing this about.

Major Gen. Milton A. Reckord, state adjutant; Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment, Maryland National Guard, and Col. Henry Kimmey, Towson, also of the National Guard, represented the state military department.

Representing the local cause were the Mayor, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan, Chief Judge George Henderson, who is chairman of the City Recreation Board, and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

Mayor Eves said the National Guard is faced with a problem of securing a new armory for Cumberland.

It was originally designed to be a one-company armory, but now houses Headquarters Company and Company C of the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment.

The Maryland Military Department had an architect work on a remodeling project to make the building adequate, but it was decided it was impractical because of the space limitations, being bounded by streets on three sides and the other by the St. George Motor Company.

So today, the resolution to be presented the City Council will urge the Governor to lend his efforts to the securing of a new armory here.

When the new armory is obtained, the city would be interested in taking over the present state Armory for a community center, Mayor Eves said.

Three Area Youths Released In Kidnap Case

Three Maryland youths were freed of kidnapping charges Saturday when 19-year-old Eva M. Keefer testified she left her Pennsylvania home and went with the trio "of my own free will."

The three—James C. Creek, 19, Carl Shook, 25, and Eldridge Leech, 25, were arrested in Hancock on warrants sworn to by the girl's mother, Mrs. Anna Keefer.

Mrs. Keefer, who resides in Pennsylvania just across the Maryland border from Flintstone, told authorities the three men came to her house and took her daughter away at gun point.

State Police in Bedford County forwarded a description of the trio to Maryland State Police at Hancock, who began a search for them. Cpl. Harold Bassore and Trooper Carlton Lewis picked the trio up just before midnight Thursday at the home of Creek's mother in Hancock.

At the time of the arrest the girl was found asleep in the home, while James Creek was asleep in another room of the house. The other two men were found asleep in a car outside the house, police said.

Cpl. Bassore said he found a shotgun and rifle in the car. A number of taverns and the homes of Shook and Leech were checked before the trio was arrested.

Returning to Pennsylvania after waiving extradition, the three men were held in Bedford County jail overnight. Justice of the Peace Millard Zimmerman Saturday afternoon ordered the three released after the girl testified that she went willingly with the men. The girl denied she was forced at gun point to leave home.

State Police said the shotgun and rifle found were used for hunting. Police said no other charges are being considered.

Well-Known Priest Dies

The Right Rev. Msgr. William Edward Kelly, 64, native of this county, and one of the best known Catholic priests in Maryland, died Saturday at 4:45 p. m. in Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, after a long illness.

Since 1952 he had been pastor of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, 2800 Pennsylvania Avenue, N. E., Washington, one of the largest parishes in the District of Columbia.

Msgr. Kelly was born in Vale Summit on June 29, 1891, the son of William M. Kelly and Jeannette (McMahon) Kelly.

He moved with his family to Cumberland at the age of five years and attended Virginia Avenue School and St. Mary's School. He carried newspapers in the South End while a school boy.

In the fall of 1907, he entered St. Charles College (Minor Seminary), then near Ellicott City, to begin his studies for the priesthood.

Upon graduating from the seminary in 1912, he went to Rome with other American students and studied for five years in North American College. One of his fellow students is the present Archbishop of New York, Francis Cardinal Spellman, and their friendship always remained close.

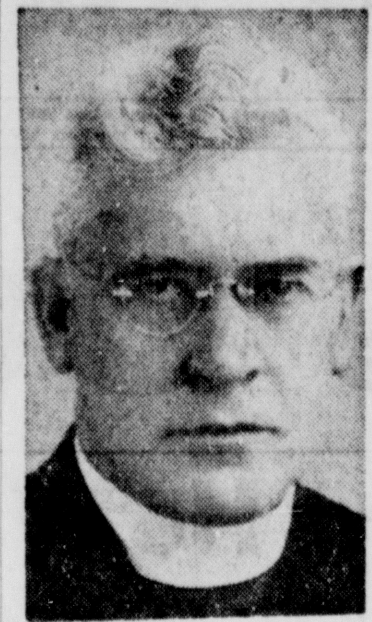

In Rome Msgr. Kelly received his Doctor of Philosophy and Doctor of Theology Degrees, and he was ordained on December 2, 1917.

Returning to the United States the following August, Msgr. Kelly was assigned as assistant pastor of St. Elizabeth's Church, Baltimore. He served there until June 1925 when he went to St. Peter's Church, Westernport, as assistant pastor.

Two years later, Msgr. Kelly was assigned to St. Peter's Church, Hancock, as pastor and remained there six years.

In June, 1933, he was transferred to St. Francis Church, Brunswick,

DEATHS AND FUNERAL NOTICES

and after four years was assigned to St. John's Church, Westminster. Msgr. Kelly then went to St. Martin's Church in Washington as pastor.

Ten years later, in 1952, Father Kelly received the position of pastor of St. Francis Xavier Church, which has approximately 6,000 parishioners and 1,000 children in its school.

About five years ago, while he was pastor of St. Martin's Church, he was made a Monsignor with the title of domestic prelate.

For about ten years, Msgr. Kelly had been in ill health, but always maintained his wit and humor. He was several times a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital here.

A keen student of baseball and other sports, Msgr. Kelly this year missed seeing one or more of the World Series games for the first time in 35 years.

When he saw Cleveland and the New York Giants play last year, it was the 34th consecutive year he had been to the World Series. However, this year he had a television set in his hospital room to see the series, although he had tickets.

He followed his school sports in this section and was always well versed on the abilities and records of the various players.

He is survived by two brothers, Frank Kelly, Long Island, and John Raymond Kelly, Boston, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Kelly, Washington.

A pontifical requiem high mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. in St. Francis Xavier Church. Celebrant of the mass will be the Most Rev. Patrick J. O'Boyle, Archbishop of the Diocese of Washington. Interment will be in St. Michaels Cemetery, Frostburg.

THE MEANING OF JUMP-RAISES

WHILE it is true, of course, that players must simply remember the conventional meanings of certain artificial bids (such as the Blackwood four-notrump bid and its various responses), there will be far less burden on sheer memory if the reasons for and logic behind most calls are clearly digested.

Take the matter of a triple raise—as from one spade to four spades. Usually, the best use for this raise is as a shutout against the opponents; but when the player has passed originally, that same triple raise is no longer preemptive; instead, it becomes a very strong call based on some high cards outside of the trump suit. The reason is simple: it has been found that these two methods—preemptive in the one case; good solid values and possible slam material after the original pass—work out best in practice.

All of which leads to a hand:

U. S. Permits Use Of Land For Roadway

The county was advised on Friday by the States Roads Commission that the U. S. Department of the Interior has granted permission for the use of certain government land in connection with the construction of the access road in to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company site at North Branch.

The Interior Department placed certain conditions on the permit, mainly that the project be completed before July 1, 1956.

James Alfred Avirett, attorney for the C&A Gas Company, presented a check to the county for $168 as the company's share in repairs to a bridge in the Ellerslie section across Wills Creek. The gas firm supplied the concrete and lumber for the work. The county furnished the balance of the materials and did the work.

Avirett said another bridge, a steel span, which is owned by the gas firm is also in need of repairs. He said he has checked into the law pertaining to responsibility in connection with the bridge and found that the county would be liable in case of an accident. He gave his law reference to Gorman E. Convention Issue

Legion Units Debate UNESCO Question

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 9 (P)—The American Legion waged a furious behind-the-scenes debate today on whether it will approve or disapprove of UNESCO, the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Two committees met jointly in a closed door special session in an effort to reach some kind of an agreement and to prevent a convention floor fight.

The issue is whether the Legion convention will accept or reject a Legion special committee report that found UNESCO neither Communist nor atheistic, nor an advocate of world government.

Strong influences within the Legion want the convention to turn thumbs down on the report.

The UNESCO question was the most controversial confronting an estimated 50,000 Legionnaires gathered here for national convention sessions opening tomorrow with an address by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Aside from UNESCO, the 37th annual convclave gave evidence of being one of the quietest in Legion history.

Pranksters along Biscayne boulevard and Flagler street were conspicuous only by their rarity.

Legionnaires who fought in World War I are pushing 60 years of age now. Many are white-haired and paunchy. They have shown no interest in waving electrical walking sticks at passing girls—a traditional pasttime at earlier conventions.

The Legion's younger veterans who fought in World War II and Korea seem less exuberant than their fathers were at the corresponding age.

The joint meeting of the convention's Americanism and Foreign Relations committees today was not on the official program. It reflected the background struggle going on within the legion on the UNESCO issue.

Conservation Officer And Wife Shot Near Elkins

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 9 (P)—A 33-year-old state conservation officer and his wife were shot and wounded near here last night in what officers called a case of mistaken identity.

The officer, Arthur Hadley, first was described as in serious condition in Davis Memorial Hospital with several shotgun pellets in his groin and leg. His wife, Edna, was less seriously hurt.

Hadley, however, was listed as in satisfactory condition today.

State Police told this story of the shooting: Conservation officers several days ago borrowed some ring-necked pheasants from Virgil Purkey, who resides about three miles from Valley Head in Randolph County.

Purkey raises the birds, and loaned some of them to the officers for a display at last weekend's Mountain State Forest Festival here. About a week ago, some other pheasants were stolen from Purkey's property.

Hadley, his wife and small daughter, about 5 years of age, took back the borrowed pheasants last night and started to put them back into their pens without first contacting Purkey.

The property owner mistook the three for thieves, and fired at the trio with a shotgun.

State Police Cpl. R. C. Cult said here tonight, after a conference with the Randolph County prosecuting attorney's office, that there were no plans to file formal charges against Purkey.

More Fruit, Vegetables On World's Dinner Table

ROME, Oct. 9 (P)—More fruit and vegetables are appearing on the world's dinner table now than before World War II.

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization reports this trend in its monthly bulletin of agricultural economics and statistics.

FAO said that in 15 European countries people ate an individual yearly average of 136 pounds of fruit and 159 pounds of vegetables in 1953 and 1954. By comparison, they ate only 97.9 pounds of fruit and 149.6 pounds of vegetables before the war.

In the United States, consumption of these foods has increased about 9 per cent. But actual weight of the average American's fruit consumption has gone down—due to the fact he eats more canned and frozen fruits. Last year he ate 103.6 pounds of fresh fruit a year compared with 137 pounds before the war.

However, he also ate 44 pounds of canned, frozen and dried fruits and juices last year, compared with only 25 pounds before the war.

Vegetable consumption in the United States last year was 192.7 pounds per individual, compared with 169.4 pounds prewar.

The report also showed America is becoming less potato conscious, while Europeans are eating more of them. Last year Europeans ate an average of 229 pounds of potatoes, while in the United States only 101 pounds were consumed. Before the war Europeans ate an average of 224 pounds and Americans 127.6 pounds.

FAO confirmed an old belief: World's champion potato eaters are the Irish. They ate 403 pounds per man last year, almost twice the European average.

35 Cents Buys $2,500 Etching

SANDIEGO, Oct. 9 (P)—John Gallucci, 70, whose hobby is rummage sales, today disclosed that an etching which he picked up a year ago for 35 cents is a Rembrandt.

He quoted Miss Erbia Feinblatt, print curator of the Los Angeles County Art Museum, as confirming the find. In Los Angeles, Miss Feinblatt said the etching definitely is from a Rembrandt plate, showing a rare second state of "The Entombment."

"I hesitated a little on the paper whether it was 17th century or not but the etching definitely is from Rembrandt's 'The Entombment.' It is very interesting because it shows the state seldom seen by collectors," she added.

(In etching and engraving, a state is the term given to a stage of the engraver's work that is distinguished from another stage by a greater or lesser amount of work done on the plate, also an impression done on the plate in such a stage.)

Miss Feinblatt declined to place a value on the etching but Gallucci said its worth is estimated at $2,500 by collectors.

Old Mines Death Traps

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (P)—The Bureau of Mines warns that many abandoned mines are death traps. Citing the recent deaths of two Kansas farmers who entered an old Colorado mine in search of uranium ore, the bureau said inexperienced persons entering abandoned mines without proper equipment and skill in using it are "risking their lives."

Churchill Sees "Catastrophe" If U.S., Britain Split

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (P)—Sir Winston Churchill, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, warned tonight that a split between his country and the United States "would surely lead sooner or later to a catastrophe such as mankind has never known."

In a speech, recorded for a Freedom House anniversary dinner, the British statesman said:

"I believe in the essential and fundamental unity of the English speaking people—not at the expense of other countries, nor by the creation of elaborate machinery, but as the natural realization of a great truth."

"The safety of the world depends upon it," he added.

Sir Winston received the Freedom House award for 1953 for "Devotion to liberty, courage in adversity, leadership in victory."

Pro Golfer Believes He's Struck Uranium

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9 (P)—Joe Longo, a pro golfer, will learn tomorrow whether his living room is built over an uranium lode or whether some tile steps in the room cause his geiger counter to dance a crazy, radioactive jig.

It started the other day when he and his wife assembled the Geiger counter on the steps. The needle danced like mad.

He put the Geiger counter away until last night. Then a new count showed the needle jumping to a hot 600 reading.

He took his miner's pick and knocked out two beautiful, imported tiles from the steps. He's taking them to the Atomic Energy Commission for assaying tomorrow morning.

"They'll have to be replaced," he commented, "But who cares if I've struck uranium?"

Md. Young Demo Drive Pays Off

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9 (P)—State Democratic Chairman T. Barton Harrington, in answer to persistent demands of the Maryland Young Democratic Clubs, has appointed a Young Democrat vice chairman of the State Central Committee.

He chose Del. Hervey G. Mechen (D-Prince Georges), a Young Democratic leader.

At the same time, Harrington quoted from the handbook of the Young Democratic Clubs of America this purpose: "... To promote harmony and friendship among themselves and among older members of the party, to the end that party factionalism will be discouraged."

Harrington urged all Democrats, "regardless of age groups of factional alignment," to strive harmoniously toward one goal—"the restoration to power of the Democratic Party in both State and national fields."

The Young Democrats' drive for more of a voice in party affairs culminated at their Ocean City convention this summer in a resolution highly critical of Harrington.

It was defeated by a wide margin after Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore interceded in support of Harrington, but not until the party chairman had let it be known he would name a vice chairman from Young Democratic ranks.

Convention Issue

Legion Units Debate UNESCO Question

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 9 (AP)—The American Legion waged a furious behind-the-scenes debate today on whether it will approve or disapprove of UNESCO, the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Two committees met jointly in a closed door special session in an effort to reach some kind of an agreement and to prevent a convention floor fight.

The issue is whether the Legion convention will accept or reject a Legion special committee report that found UNESCO neither Communist nor atheistic, nor an advocate of world government.

Strong influences within the Legion want the convention to turn thumbs down on the report.

The UNESCO question was the most controversial confronting an estimated 50,000 Legionnaires gathered here for national convention sessions opening tomorrow with an address by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Aside from UNESCO, the 37th annual convclave gave evidence of being one of the quietest in Legion history.

Franksters along Biscayne boulevard and Flagler street were conspicuous only by their rarity.

Legionnaires who fought in World War I are pushing 60 years of age now. Many are white-haired and paunchy. They have shown no interest in waving electrical walking sticks at passing girls—a traditional pastime at earlier conventions.

The Legion's younger veterans who fought in World War II and Korea seem less exuberant than their fathers were at the corresponding age.

The joint meeting of the convention's Americanism and Foreign Relations committees today was not on the official program. It reflected the background struggle going on within the legion on the UNESCO issue.

Keyser Clubs Will Combine To Meet Quota

Organizations Aid Blood Bank

KEYSER — Service and fraternal organizations of Keyser have combined to make the Red Cross Blood Bank a big success next week.

The organizations, including Boyce-Houser Post, 41, American Legion; Nancy Hanks Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, 1212, 40 and 8, and the Women of the Moose of Moose Lodge, 662, all are working in their own ways to get a large turn out of blood donors.

The quota of blood set for Keyser each visit this year by the Red Cross is 106 pints, and the workers are doing everything they can to arouse interest of local persons to give.

The Potomac State college faculty and student body will respond. Students under age will contact their parents for permission to give.

Several weeks ago, because the citizens had slowly failed to reach their quota after starting with 96 pints and dwindled down greatly, the Red Cross declined to send the blood unit here because it was very unprofitable from a blood bank mark. Then citizens appealed to the Red Cross to try again, and this is the effort being made to insure a supply of blood equal to the requests that will insure service of blood when needed.

Twenty-six members of the Women of the Moose, Keyser, will begin a house to house canvass today, lining up persons to give blood on Wednesday, October 19, when the mobile blood bank unit will be here. In addition to this the WOTM will also provide transportation to the blood bank unit when it will be at the Keyser High School, and will canvass the workers in the B & O Railroad Shops in Keyser for blood donors. These women will make regular reports on their work beginning today.

Textile Workers Get Pay Raise In Lonaconing

Keyser Clubs Will Combine To Meet Quota

Organizations Aid Blood Bank

KEYSER — Service and fraternal organizations of Keyser have combined to make the Red Cross Blood Bank a big success next week.

The organizations, including Boyce-Houser Post, 41, American Legion; Nancy Hanks Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Voiture 1212, Forty and Eight, and the Women of the Moose of Moose Lodge, 662, all are working in their own ways to get a large turn out of blood donors.

The quota of blood set for Keyser each visit this year by the Red Cross is 106 pints, and the workers are doing everything they can to arouse interest of local persons to give.

The Potomac State college faculty and student body will respond. Students under age will contact their parents for permission to give.

Several weeks ago, because the citizens had slowly failed to reach their quota after starting with 96 pints and dwindled down greatly, the Red Cross declined to send the blood unit here because it was very unprofitable from a blood bank mark. Then citizens appealed to the Red Cross to try again, and this is the effort being made to insure a supply of blood equal to the requests that will insure service of blood when needed.

Twenty-six members of the Women of the Moose, Keyser, will begin a house to house canvass today, lining up persons to give blood on Wednesday, October 19, when the mobile blood bank unit will be here. In addition to the WOTM will also provide transportation to the blood bank unit when it will be at the Keyser High School, and will canvass the workers in the B & O Railroad Shops in Keyser for blood donors. These women will make regular reports on their work beginning today.

Premium Payment On War Insurance

The great new carrier commissioned at Portsmouth, Va., is officially the U. S. S. Forrestal. But many a sailor, looking at the flight deck running slaunchwise along her hull and at the weird devices adorning her "island" and built into her massive steel side, must wonder whether she is a ship or something else.

The Forrestal can be described in terms usually applied to ships. That is, she displaces from 70,000 to 80,000 tons full load, she is 1,036 feet long overall and has a maximum beam of 252 feet, and her four 22-foot propellers will drive her at a speed of 34 or 35 knots.

Also, her compliment will consist of 3,500 officers and men—and it is of interest that each enlisted man will have his own bunk, equipped with a foam rubber mattress.

But the Forrestal is, in fact, a floating military air base. That flight deck is almost four acres in area, the hangar deck is as long as two and a half football fields, her four catapults are steam powered, and there are eight elevators to lift the Forrestal's planes from their hangars to the flight deck.

To operate this vast war machine requires mechanics with hundreds of specialized skills, in addition to the men who fly the planes she carries and the men who keep them in repair.

It is because she is both ship and air base that the Forrestal is the first of the United States Navy's new capital ships. She can move on the seas, launching her bombers and fighters thousands of miles from land. She is another mighty deterrent to any potential enemy that might contemplate trying for a knockout blow by an attack without warning.

As such, the Forrestal represents a $200 million premium payment on insurance against World War III.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Status Quo

What Egypt has done is quite simple. Not finding it asible to obtain arms at reasonable terms for speedy delivery from the United States, Premier Nasser got it he needed through Soviet Russia. The deal was made in August. It is not believable that the United es or Great Britain knew nothing about the deal until veries were ready. The general claim to ignorance only mean that the existing intelligence organizations both countries are totally incompetent and require erhauling. In the United States, this has been recommended by the Hoover Commission.

There can be no question but that Egypt, a sovereign state, has a right to purchase arms where it chooses and under whatever conditions are available to it. The suppliers are bound by no international agreements not to sell to Egypt or any other country.

What is involved here is altogether another principle. The Geneva conference, at the summit, was called for the purpose of establishing a recognized status quo based on a balance of power. This balance of power differs from that of the Holy Alliance (1815) in that it is not limited to Europe; it is worldwide. The American people have never seen a map describing the balance of power established at Geneva; as the Russians smiled so smilingly, it undoubtedly included China as part of the Soviet Union State. The Western group of nations would claim the Arab world and Israel, both of which are really neutral, as part of the so-called Western free nations. Among these countries is Egypt. None of the countries involved in this formula, except four, were present at Geneva or had a voice in the description of their position in the world.

A balance of power based on a rigid status quo can only be maintained if neither side engages in activities which remove any segment of the arrangement which immediately produces an imbalance. When such an arrangement is held together by a fine hair, it is too much to expect that it can be held together at all for any prolonged period. At any rate, this one did not hold for a month, whereas the arrangements made at the Congress of Vienna survived more or less for 99 years (1815-1914).

Egypt's role in all this is that Premier Nasser wants weapons to destroy Israel, which has thus far successfully challenged Egypt's preeminence in the Near East. In each armed encounter, Israel has won the day. Egypt, which seeks to dominate the Moslem fraternity of nations, loses face each time it comes in conflict with Israel because the Jews are more competent fighters and possess better arms. Egypt assumed that the purchase of superior arms could help in the struggle against Israel.

The conquest of Israel by Egypt would seriously upset the status quo in the Near East. The support of Egypt by Soviet Russia upsets the balance of power in the world. It must be assumed from past experience, and it is so assumed, that Russia would not provide arms to Egypt without making a secret agreement containing important political clauses. Such clauses affect the future not only of Israel, but of Turkey and Greece and cannot but have an important effect upon all North African countries and Italy. This means that the Mediterranean, which has been a Western lake, is no longer a Western lake and that NATO has been breached not out of Germany, as was anticipated, but out of Egypt, which was not expected.

In a word, the Geneva smiles are again frowns and the Russians have again won a major diplomatic victory while the West was narcotized by the optimism engendered at Geneva. It is astounding that this Russian formula should have been so regularly successful for 12 years since Stalin first used it at Teheran and that the Western statesmen, so anxious to avoid war, never learn anything, but regularly walk into the same trap. It must be said for Harry Truman that having smelled the bait in that trap, he kept away from it during the whole of his Presidency except for this one excursion into the unknown.

The Egyptian and Algerian imbroglios are more serious than appears on the surface. For one thing, they destroyed in August a status quo established and recognized in July.

It's Hard To See The Forest For The Trees

Assets For Nixon's Candidacy Seem Impressive

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
In the last fortnight, Republican leaders from every corner of the United States have been telephoning or calling on Vice President Richard Nixon, either to assure him of their support, or to sound out his intentions toward the coming presidential election.

Nixon has given them all the same answer. According to several first-hand reports, the Nixon answer has run about as follows: "We all hope the President will be well enough to run himself. Even if he decides that he can't run again, I think the party ought to defer entirely to his wishes, as I'm sure you agree. So I don't want to talk about the matter at all."

This answer to the eager politicians is typical of the way Nixon has handled the difficult situation into which the President's illness automatically plunged him. He has not only been loyal to his chief. He has also been sure-footed and dignified, which is an extremely difficult combination, as anyone knows who has tried to get over slippery ground in a dignified manner.

Nixon Will Run

But it is already transparently obvious, of course, that the vice president will in fact be a candidate for the Republican nomination if the President, as is virtually certain, decides he must retire. Unless he is directly encouraged by the President himself, Nixon will not be an active, avowed candidate, engaging in public delegate-hunts in the manner of his great enemy, California Gov. Goodwin Knight. But Nixon will be a candidate all the same.

Furthermore an assessment of the Nixon assets and liabilities clearly reveals that he is, as of now, the leading candidate among the Republicans. He starts, of course, with one very heavy handicap. If Gov. Knight has anything to say about it, and he will have a great deal, no California delegates will be carrying Nixon banners.

But Nixon can do what Gov. Knight will have the greatest difficulty in doing. He can obtain heavy support in other states. For example, it is not generally known, but there is a close personal link between the vice president and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who may be retired, but will still have a great deal to say about what happens to the New York delegation at San Francisco.

How or when this link with Dewey was established is not quite certain. It may have come about through Nixon's close personal friendship with Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, who is the chief political aid of the chief Dewey man in the cabinet, Attorney General Herbert Brownell. At any rate, although Gov. Dewey is abroad, people who invariably reflect his views are already passing the word that "there's no one but Nixon."

Opposed By McCarthy

By the same token, almost all members of the old Taft group in the Republican party also regard Nixon as entirely acceptable, although they probably feel more real enthusiasm for Sen. Knowland. Almost the only exceptions, interestingly enough, are Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy and two or three of his fellow extremists, who cannot forgive the vice president for standing by the President in the culminating showdown in the Senate.

Finally, there is no doubt at all that Nixon also has the invaluable asset of the President's warm liking and admiration. Whether Nixon will also have the President's active support is of course another question. Most of those who know Eisenhower best think the Republican leaders will be un-

Russians made big mistake when they challenged the French to a debate within hearing distance of one another.

If they start bandying words with the French they're going to wind up oratorically bow-legged.

Big Red said the French were satellites of America, their women had no virtue and Parisian caviar has a very low caliber.

These are not things you order by catalogue number and the French resent two out of three.

They told big Red the Americans saved France by permitting Lafayette's sentimental account to compound interest for 150 years.

It depends on which side your satellites are buttered. It would be okay for Moscow if the French bowed to the Kremlin every time a leaf fell off a tree.

The French owe us a lot. But why bring that up between notes?

Eisenhower's Team In White House Has Shown Minimum Of Back-Biting

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — A lot has been said about the White House team during President Eisenhower's illness, but not much about who makes up that team. FDR once called his team "anonymous" assistants, and it's true that the men around any president must be as anonymous as possible. They must stay in the background, let the President take credit for the hits, while they take credit for the errors.

Usually there's a lot of back-biting in a White House staff. Some want to pull the President one way, some another. There's less of that in Eisenhower's staff than most I have seen in Washington. When they have differences they keep them quiet.

Because he's been away a lot, and because he believes in Army general staff delegation of authority, they have handled a lot of major decisions for three years, find no trouble continuing that system.

Here is how the team works and the roll-call of who they are:

Head of the Team is Sherman Adams—Cool, tight-lipped, efficient ex-governor of New Hampshire. He really runs the White House. He also guides all but three of the cabinet. These are Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, and Secretary of Defense Wilson. With these exceptions, Adams dominates the cabinet. They report to Adams, not to Ike.

Adams has a powerful political enemy in Senator Styles Bridges, also Republican, also from New Hampshire. He has stepped on many toes. He has to in his job. He has also gone beyond the call of duty in barging into the Federal Communications Commission to get TV licenses for Eisenhower friends, and into the Interstate Commerce Commission to influence the New York Central dispute. He's efficient, calculating, always-on-the-ball, and the real power behind the scenes in the White House.

General Wilton Persons—Chief lobbyist for Congress. In the Army, Persons was nicknamed "Slick." The name has stuck with him, partly because of his charming quiet way of manipulating people into doing things they don't want to do. During the war he was the Army's lobbyist on Capitol Hill, is Ike's lobbyist today. His brother is the recent governor of Alabama, a Democrat. Slick has been non-political for years. He is one of the few White House team members who get in to see Ike whenever they want to. Most of them rarely see the President.

Fred Seaton—Ike's foremost trouble-shooter. Is close to the President, sees him frequently, understands practical politics. Seaton is a Midwest Newspaper publisher who served briefly as senator from Nebraska, then handled public relations for the Pentagon. He still glows when he talks about the President's crusade. Most of the staff don't any more.

Maxwell Rabb—Secretary of the cabinet. This is a key post and extremely important. Rabb is right-hand man of Sherman Adams, calls cabinet members, tells them what to do. Cabinet members know that when he calls, Rabb is really talking for Adams, and they act accordingly. This is how the team operates. Nominally Rabb is supposed to handle minority problems—smooth out race, religious friction. Actually his main job is now coordinating the cabinet for Adams.

Jack Martin—Former assistant to the late Senator Taft, was hired because of his contacts with Taft friends. He now handles many minority problems and also lobbies on Capitol Hill with the Taft right wing of the Republican party.

James Hagerty—Press secretary, is one of the most effective the White House has had in many years. Hagerty knows when to leak, when not to leak. He's a straight-shooter and newsmen trust him. Hagerty is close to Eisenhower and is one of the few who see him regularly. Hagerty was recommended to Ike by Tom Dewey.

Bernard Shanley—White House counsel is one of the few who still feel the spirit of the crusade, still talks glowingly about the great reform. He is a straight-laced lawyer, who sticks to his knitting and doesn't get embroiled in any palace guard maneuvering. General Persons, incidentally, has developed the technique of letting Shanley give Ike the bad news; Persons gives him the good.

Gerald Morgan—Assistant counsel, is an astute lawyer with plenty of experience on Capitol Hill. He served as legislative counsel on The Hill for many years, later as a private attorney got lobbying fee of $10,000 a month lobbying for the pipeline companies. He spends part of his time at the Capitol for the White House.

Harold Stassen—Now adviser on disarmament, has handled a lot of other problems in the past, and Eisenhower especially likes the way he presents a problem. Stassen brings in one sheet of paper with the arguments against on one side, the arguments for on the other. Then he gives his own conclusions for Ike to follow if he wishes.

Nelson Rockefeller—Shifted to the White House after he couldn't stomach some of Mrs. Hobby's reactionary policies. He is the chief adviser to the President on psychological warfare, propaganda and cultural activities. Rockefeller did a great job on these under Roosevelt but his abilities haven't been taken advantage of under Eisenhower.

Gabriel Hauge—Is a tweedy, Harvard, Ivy-Leaguer, economist, former McGraw-Hill business writer who advises on the economic outlook, but doesn't often get close to Ike.

Kevin McCann—Is the former president of Defiance College and author of "The Man from Abilene." He is Ike's chief speech-writer.

These, in brief, are the members of the Eisenhower team. They give the impression of cold, hard-working efficiency. When the President comes in in the morning, a buzzer rings to alert everyone of his arrival. There are no leisurely staff conferences in which everyone chews the rag as under Truman, no midnight bull sessions as under Roosevelt. There is clockwork general-staff precision. ## Market Explosion

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — What has happened to our good friend President Eisenhower has been the match that set off the explosion which has been due for some time. Those of you who have followed this weekly column will remember that I have often noted five "sticks of dynamite" which were awaiting something to set them off.

Five Reasons For Collapse.

1. Buying by Investment Trusts, Pension Funds, and Institutions. The money has come into these so fast that the fund-managers felt they must invest it. Furthermore, they naturally turned to the biggest companies.

2. Tremendous Building of Houses. This exceeds that of previous years. The money is well spent, both to house the owner and help the 27 industries which benefit from the building of every house. Home purchasers, however, should have been made to put up more money of their own, and not buy houses on shoestrings.

3. Greatly Increased Installment Purchasing. I do not criticize the purchasing—even on installments—of automobiles, electric refrigerators, washing machines, modern kitchens, and other things which improve the efficiency of the home; but buying TV sets, with hardly a down payment, may be questionable.

4. Military Expenditures a Great Factor. To the extent these are paid for taxes, they are not too serious; but they cannot be depended upon. Furthermore, although necessary, the expenditure is uneconomic.

5. Poor Yields of Stocks after Payment of Taxes. Except in the case of pension funds, institutional investments, and other non-taxable purchases, low yield may be the greatest factor. After most investors deduct the income tax from their dividends, the yield is altogether too small to run the risk of buying stocks.

Effect Upon Business, Employment

What the market will do from now on: I predict that most major dips will go lower than the preceding dip. Yet, each dip in due time will be followed by an upward reaction. This latter will probably not reach as high as the preceding upward movements. What will really happen to the stock market will depend upon general business, which in turn determines employment. Employment determines retail sales, which supply the factories with orders, thus completing the economic cycle.

President Eisenhower's health will be a great factor in determining the immediate future of business. Many large undertakings have been held in abeyance pending a decision from President Eisenhower as to whether he will run again. This work will doubtless now be held up until it is known who the presidential candidates will be. Perhaps this means that the contracts will not be signed until after the election, if they are signed for some years to come.

What Ike Would Like

Intimate friends of President Eisenhower and his wife have known that he does not like the details, the public speaking and entertaining demanded by the Presidency. He enjoyed being general or the Army where his work was largely confined to thinking and planning. Others carried out the details. No one opposed him or ignored his orders. We now know he will not run again. But I believe that he would have liked to be secretary of defense or secretary of state or chairman of the Security Board. His holding such a position would add greatly to the administration and give the country faith.

When manufacturers and merchants telephone me asking what they can now do to prevent a business depression, I reply: "Spend more money on advertising." As stated above, future business and prosperity depend upon retail sales at the grass-roots level. To simulate these sales, two things are required: More advertising and better employee relations. I hope that every businessman and wageworker will do his part along these lines during these critical weeks.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Esquimos' noses are so flat, they are hard to fit with glasses—Factographs. Looks like a good market for monocles.

The song "Sweet Adeline" is more than 60 years old, according to a music columnist. However, the old gal's still mighty popular with partygoers—after the seventh highball.

Prehistoric man, according to an archeologist, often was nine feet or more in height. All muscle and no brains?

A Toronto house only seven feet wide sold for $2,340. But just think of the saving on furniture!

Canadian cops investigating a disturbance in a home were greeted with a barrage of peaches—in jars. The canner, we understand, is now in the can.

Old cats feed better if fed blue cheese, says a Chicago veterinarian. Probably makes 'em dream of mice in Technicolor.

Television networks are now offering "adult" western programs. We get it—horse operas, senior grade.

Ancient Inca drawings, we read, resemble modernistic paintings. And probably are just as hard to understand.

Premium Payment On War Insurance

The great new carrier commissioned at Portsmouth, Va., is officially the U. S. S. Forrestal. But many a sailor, looking at the flight deck running slaunchwise along her hull and at the weird devices adorning her "island" and built into her massive steel side, must wonder whether she is a ship or something else.

The Forrestal can be described in terms usually applied to ships. That is, she displaces from 70,000 to 80,000 tons full load, she is 1,036 feet long overall and has a maximum beam of 252 feet, and her four 22-foot propellers will drive her at a speed of 34 or 35 knots.

Also, her compliment will consist of 3,500 officers and men—and it is of interest that each enlisted man will have his own bunk, equipped with a foam rubber mattress.

But the Forrestal is, in fact, a floating military air base. That flight deck is almost four acres in area, the hangar deck is as long as two and a half football fields, her four catapults are steam powered, and there are eight elevators to lift the Forrestal's planes from their hangars to the flight deck.

To operate this vast war machine requires mechanics with hundreds of specialized skills, in addition to the men who fly the planes she carries and the men who keep them in repair.

It is because she is both ship and air base that the Forrestal is the first of the United States Navy's new capital ships. She can move on the seas, launching her bombers and fighters thousands of miles from land. She is another mighty deterrent to any potential enemy that might contemplate trying for a knockout blow by an attack without warning.

As such, the Forrestal represents a $200 million premium payment on insurance against World War III.

The Status Quo

What Egypt has done is quite simple. Not finding it as possible to obtain arms at reasonable terms for speedy victory from the United States, Premier Nasser got to be needed through Soviet Russia. The deal was made in August. It is not believable that the United States or Great Britain knew nothing about the deal until it was ready. The general claim to ignorance only mean that the existing intelligence organizations both countries are totally incompetent and require rehailing. In the United States, this has been recommended by the Hoover Commission.

There can be no question but that Egypt, a sovereign state, has a right to purchase arms where it chooses and under whatever conditions are available to it. The suppliers are bound by no international agreements not to sell to Egypt or any other country.

What is involved here is altogether another principle. The Geneva conference, at the summit, was called for the purpose of establishing a recognized status quo based on a balance of power. This balance of power differs from that of the Holy Alliance (1815) in that it is not limited to Europe; it is worldwide. The American people have never seen a map describing the balance of power established at Geneva; as the Russians smiled so smugly, it undoubtedly included China as part of the Soviet Universal State. The Western group of nations would claim the Arab world and Israel, both of which are really neutral, as part of the so-called Western free nations. Among these countries is Egypt. None of the countries involved in this formula, except four, were present at Geneva or had a voice in the description of their position in the world.

A balance of power based on a rigid status quo can only be maintained if neither side engages in activities which remove any segment of the arrangement which immediately produces an imbalance. When such an arrangement is held together by a fine hair, it is too much to expect that it can be held together at all for any prolonged period. At any rate, this one did not hold for a month, whereas the arrangements made at the Congress of Vienna survived more or less for 99 years (1815-1914).

Egypt's role in all this is that Premier Nasser wants weapons to destroy Israel, which has thus far successfully challenged Egypt's preeminence in the Near East. In each armed encounter, Israel has won the day. Egypt, which seeks to dominate the Moslem fraternity of nations, loses face each time it comes in conflict with Israel because the Jews are more competent fighters and possess better arms. Egypt assumed that the purchase of superior arms could help in the struggle against Israel.

The conquest of Israel by Egypt would seriously upset the status quo in the Near East. The support of Egypt by Soviet Russia upsets the balance of power in the world. It must be assumed from past experience, and it is so assumed, that Russia would not provide arms to Egypt without making a secret agreement containing important political clauses. Such clauses affect the future not only of Israel, but of Turkey and Greece and cannot but have an important effect upon all North African countries and Italy. This means that the Mediterranean, which has been a Western lake, is no longer a Western lake and that NATO has been breached not out of Germany, as was anticipated, but out of Egypt, which was not expected.

In a word, the Geneva smiles are again frowns and the Russians have again won a major diplomatic victory while the West was narcotized by the optimism engendered at Geneva. It is astounding that this Russian formula should have been so regularly successful for 12 years since Stalin first used it at Teheran and that the Western statesmen, so anxious to avoid war, never learn anything, but regularly walk into the same trap. It must be said for Harry Truman that having smelled the bait in that trap, he kept away from it during the whole of his Presidency except for this one excursion into the unknown.

The Egyptian and Algerian imbroglios are more serious than appears on the surface. For one thing, they destroyed in August a status quo established and recognized in July.

It's Hard To See The Forest For The Trees

Assets For Nixon's Candidacy Seem Impressive

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON
In the last fortnight, Republican leaders from every corner of the United States have been telephoning or calling on Vice President Richard Nixon, either to assure him of their support, or to sound out his intentions toward the coming presidential election.

Nixon has given them all the same answer. According to several first-hand reports, the Nixon answer has run about as follows: "We all hope the President will be well enough to run himself. Even if he decides that he can't run again, I think the party ought to defer entirely to his wishes, as I'm sure you agree. So I don't want to talk about the matter at all."

This answer to the eager politicos is typical of the way Nixon has handled the difficult situation into which the President's illness automatically plunged him. He has not only been loyal to his chief. He has also been sure-footed and dignified, which is an extremely difficult combination, as anyone knows who has tried to get over slippery ground in a dignified manner.

Nixon Will Run

But it is already transparently obvious, of course, that the vice president will in fact be a candidate for the Republican nomination if the President, as is virtually certain, decides he must retire. Unless he is directly encouraged by the President himself, Nixon will not be an active, avowed candidate, engaging in public delegate-hunts in the manner of his great enemy, California Gov. But Nixon can do what Gov. Knight will have the greatest difficulty in doing. He can obtain heavy support in other states. For example, it is not generally known, but there is a close personal link between the vice president and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who may be retired, but will still have a great deal to say about what happens to the New York delegation at San Francisco.

How or when this link with Dewey was established is not quite certain. It may have come about through Nixon's close personal friendship with Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers, who is the chief political aid of the chief Dewey man in the cabinet, Attorney General Herbert Brownell. At any rate, although Gov. Dewey is abroad, people who in-

Market Explosion

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass.—What has happened to our good friend President Eisenhower has been the match that set off the explosion which has been due for some time. Those of you who have followed this weekly column will remember that I have often noted five "sticks of dynamite" which were awaiting something to set them off.

Five Reasons For Collapse.

1. Buying by Investment Trusts, Pension Funds, and Institutions. The money has come into these so fast that the fund-managers felt they must invest it. Furthermore, they naturally turned to the biggest companies.

I do not criticize the purchasing—even on installments—of automobiles, electric refrigerators, washing machines, modern kitchens, and other things which improve the efficiency of the home; but buying TV sets, with hardly a down payment, may be questionable.

4. Military Expenditures a Great Factor. To the extent these are paid for taxes, they are not too serious; but they cannot be depended upon. Furthermore, although necessary, the expenditure is uneconomic.

5. Poor Yields of Stocks after Payment of Taxes. Except in the case of pension funds, institutional investments, and other non-taxable purchases, low yield may be the greatest factor. After most investors deduct the income tax from their dividends, the yield is altogether too small to run the risk of buying stocks.

Many Factors Influence Pain In Dysmenorrhea

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Painful menstruation (dysmenorrhea) is a problem to the working girl. Distress seldom is severe enough to remain home but often interferes with concentration and efficiency. It has been estimated that the condition leads to a loss of 140 million hours annually, representing an entire year of work among 58,000 women.

Cramping is one of the most common symptoms. When distress is spasmodic, it resembles in miniature the pains of labor. The lowermost part of the abdomen is the usual site of discomfort. Pain is aching in character and frequently is associated with backache, headache, prostration, nausea, and vomiting. The manifestations precede menstruation by 24 to 48 hours and disappear by the second day.

Discomfort arises from contractions of the uterus. Many factors influence the severity of the pain such as fatigue and emotional strain. Suggestion also plays a role, particularly in families where the period is considered an ordeal.

Now and then dysmenorrhea is a symptom of a pelvic condition; fibroids may be at fault or perhaps an ovarian cyst or obstruction to the opening of the uterus. But in the majority the pelvic organs are normal.

The numerous treatments are designed to relieve pain, reduce pelvic congestion, or relax the muscles of the uterus. Aspirin, rest in bed, and the hot water bottle are time honored remedies. A nip of brandy or whisky helps some sufferers. Others find a combination of aspirin and phenacetin with codeine or benzedrine helpful.

A new analgesic sedative product was introduced recently by a California physician. The preparation was given to 47 dysmenorrhea victims and 18 reported complete relief. The rest were helped to a lesser degree.

Researchers from Georgetown University School of Medicine used a new muscle relaxing drug on a series of 66 women patients. Eighteen had excellent results, 37 good, and 11 fair. Some women benefit by eating lightly in the three days preceding and during the flow. Out of door activities are valuable and special bending and stretching exercises, as a means of relieving pelvic congestion, have been recommended.

A Canadian physician tells his patients to scatter 20 small objects about the floor and pick them up, one at a time, and place them on top of an open door.

A factory worker in Budapest sidled up to the lady foreman and implored, "May I leave at the end of 11 hours tonight instead of 12, Madam Director? I'd like to go to the state opera."

"You may," decided the director. "I'm happy that our workers appreciate culture. But cut out that 'Madam Director' business. Now that we have been liberated, remember we are all comrades! By the way, what opera are you attending?"

"Comrade Butterfly," said the worker.

A comely miss, concealing little in her bikini, was confronted by an indignant officer of the law. "You ought to be ashamed," he told her. "What would your poor mother say if she could see you now?" The unperturbed miss replied, "She'd probably say, 'Bring that suit back at once! It's hers you know."

"I set out in life, I'm tired of the old grad sadly. To find that pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Now I'm 47, and all I've found is the pot!"

Mistakes Pave Way To Defeat For Redskins

Chicago Cashes In On Interceptions, Recovered Fumbles

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (P)—The Chicago Cardinals' fiercely charging line forced the Washington Redskins to commit an unending string of errors today and enabled the underdog Cards to sock the Redskins from the ranks of the unbeaten, 24-10.

The Cardinals' victory brought a statisticians' nightmare with a four-way deadlock for first place in the National Football League's Eastern Division. Bracketed together were the Redskins, Cardinals, Pittsburgh Steelers and Cleveland Browns.

All four Chicago scores resulted from Redskin mistakes and the hungry Cardinals were quick to cash in on four pass interceptions and three recovered fumbles.

Lamar McHan, second-year quarterback from Arkansas, was the fellow who spotted the Cardinals' touchdowns. He passed 8 yards to Gern Nagler for one, sneaked a yard for the second and handed off to Mal Hammack for a 2-yard smash for the third.

But the real Chicago hero was the entire forward wall. It never let the sluggish Redskins get an offensive drive rolling until the last quarter, when rookie Ralph Guglielmi steered the 'Skins on a 77-yard march.

All 10 Washington points were registered by Vic Janowicz, who kicked an 18-yard field goal that gave the Redskins a brief 3-0 lead and scored a touchdown on a 2-yard buck following a 28-yard pass from Guglielmi to Billy Cox.

Sentinels Cop Fourth

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels notched their fourth consecutive victory, the third via the shutout route, when they took Beall High School into camp at the local stadium Saturday night by the score of 20-0. It also was the sixth consecutive triumph for a Hahn-coached eleven over the Mountaineers.

Detroit Lions Beaten, 17-10, By Los Angeles

Pass Interceptions Highlight NFL Tilt

DETROIT, Oct. 9 (P)—The Los Angeles Rams, getting a big lift from three pass interceptions by halfback Willard Sherman, all but knocked the Detroit Lions out of the Western Division race of the National Football League today with a 17-10 victory over 54,836 fans in Briggs Stadium.

It was the Lions' third straight defeat, virtually crushing their bid for a fourth consecutive division title.

The victory gave Los Angeles a 3-0 record and moved the Rams into a first place tie with the surprising Baltimore Colts.

Quarterback Bobby Layne desperately tried to bring Detroit a tie in the final minute of play. He completed four passes for 38 yards and moved the Lions to the Los Angeles 17 before time ran out.

Earlier, Sherman chilled the Lions with his three interceptions. He picked off two of Layne's passes—one of them on the one—and another by Bob Hoernschmeyer.

Quarterback Norm van Brocklin set up the Rams' first touchdown with a 55-yard toss to Elroy Hirsch, then passed 12 yards to end Bob Boyd for the clincher.

Les Richter kicked both extra points and added a 41-yard field goal. He missed three other attempts from the 21, 37 and 20.

Doak Walker accounted for all of Detroit's scoring. He took an 18-yard touchdown pass from Hoernschmeyer in the final quarter and booted a 14-yard field goal and the lone extra point.

Los Angeles 17 3 7 0-17 Detroit 10 0 3 0-10

Los Angeles scoring—Touchdowns: Towler (1, plunge); Boyd (12, pass, run from Van Brocklin). Conversions: Richter 2. Field goal: Richter (41).

Yankees Head For Far East

Ford Frick Is Among 66 Persons On Tour

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9 (INS)—The New York Yankees, accompanied for the most part by their wives, enplaned some three-score strong in San Francisco today for a far east tour that will see the American League champions in action in Hawaii, Manila, Okinawa and Japan.

Sixty-six persons in all were included in the tour party that left the Golden Gate city's International Airport aboard a giant Pan American Stratocruiser for Hawaii at 10:10 a. m. (PST).

They were due at Honolulu at approximately 5 p. m., Hawaii time, for the start of a week's series of exhibition games and island recreation before heading farther across the Pacific on their Asian goodwill tour.

On the passenger list was a great portion of the world's top names in baseball—Commissioner Ford Frick, Yankee manager Casey Stengel and co-owner Del Webb, and all of the Yankee player roster except four. Those who were unable to make the trip were Frankie Crosetti, Phil Rizzuto, Joe Collins and Rip Coleman.

Duke Snider, Series Star, Arrives Home

LYNWOOD, Calif., Oct. 9 (P)—Duke Snider, whose home runs helped the Brooklyn Dodgers win their first World Series, arrived home by automobile today for a special homecoming. Snider got his first look at his new son, Kurt, who was born three weeks ago.

On hand to greet the Dodger slugger were his wife, Beverly, and his other two children, Kevin, 6, and Pamela, 4. Kurt was born here while the Dodgers were in their last week of regular league play but the series delayed the Duke's chance to meet his new son.

Asked what his current plans are, Snider said, "After a long auto trip from coast to coast, I think I'll just sleep for a week."

All except eight states in America restrict the use of fireworks.

Perez To Fight Bob Courchesne

Bout Set Tonight At St. Nick Arena

[By The Associated Press] Floyd Patterson, Willie Pep, Ralph (Tiger) Jones, and Lulu Perez are the featured fighters this week in a drab national boxing program.

Patterson, top-ranking light heavyweight contender, guns for his 13th straight victory against young Cal Brad of Los Angeles in Los Angeles Thursday night. The 20-year old Brooklyn, beaten only by Joey Maxim 16 months ago, has swept 12 in succession since. This year he has won all seven of his fights by knockouts. Brad should be No. 8.

Pep, former featherweight champion continues his campaign in the nation's small clubs Monday night in a 10-rounder against Charlie Titone of Brooklyn at Brockton, Mass.

Perez, onetime leading featherweight challenger and now unranked, attempts a comeback against Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., in a television 10-rounder (Dumont-TV, 9 p.m. EST) at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. This could be the fight of the week. Courchesne is unbeaten in his last 16 outings and shapes up as a possible contender for champion Sandy Saddler. Perez is from Brooklyn.

Jones, seventh ranking middleweight contender from Yonkers, N.Y., mixes with Al Andrews, Superior, Wis., in the Wednesday night radio-TV bout (ABC-TV, radio, 9 p.m. EST), in Miami.

Ray Drake of Brooklyn and Tony Baldoni, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., a couple of young middleweights who like to slug it out, are paired for an interesting radio-TV 10-rounder in Syracuse, N.Y., Friday night (NBC-TV, radio, 9 p.m. EST).

Chuck Davey faces Alan Kennedy of Bay City, Mich., at Lansing, Mich., in a welterweight 10-round Saturday night.

Parsons Faces Doddridge In Tilt Tonight

Fort Hill Bags 4th, Romney Loses, 19-0

Parsons High School's gridders are slated to swing into action tonight when they do battle with Doddridge High School at West Union, W. Va., at 7:30 o'clock.

This game originally was set for Friday night but was postponed on account of rain.

Coach Bob Sullivan's Tucker Countians will be angling for their fourth win of the campaign. The Panthers own a 3-1 record to date.

Sentinels Cop Fourth

Fort Hill High School's Sentinels notched their fourth consecutive victory, the third via the shutout route, when they took Beall High School into camp at the local stadium Saturday night by the score of 20-0. It also was the sixth consecutive triumph for a Hahn-coached eleven over the Mountaineers.

Clarence "Pooch" Lewis scored two of the Sentinels' touchdowns while the other was credited to Jim Crawford, the city's leading point getter. Crawford made two conversions by placement.

Fort Hill piled up a total of 240 net yards, 221 rushing and 19 on pass. Beall gained 158 yards, 70 on the ground and 88 on 10, out of 18 passes. The first downs were 11 to 10 in Fort Hill's favor.

Romney Loses 19-0

Romney High's Pioneers suffered their second straight shutout defeat Saturday at Morgantown, W. Va., losing to Homer Fizer's University High eleven by the score of 19-0.

UHS scored two touchdowns on passes and the third score also was set up by an aerial. Morgantown edged the Pioneers in first downs, 9-8, and gained 180 yards rushing and 44 yards through the air. The winners completed three of four passes. Coach Wes Abrams' gridders completed 8 of 18 passes for 97 yards and picked up 83 yards on running plays. Shanbik scored twice for UHS while the third TD was credited to Trentine. Kelly made the conversion. The game was played on a muddy field.

Northern, Southern Win

Northern High School's Huskies of Garrett County scored their initial football victory Saturday when they downed Terra Alta High School of Preston County at the Cove by the score of 13-7. Carl Mazer scored the winning TD in the final period and passed to Joe Bender for the extra point. A Mazer to Bender pass netted Northern its first TD in the opening period but Terra Alta took a 7-6 lead in the second quarter when Frien dashed over from the two-yard mark and also plunged the point.

Southern High of Oakland spilled St. Francis of Morgantown Saturday at Oakland by the score of 13-7. The Highlanders racked up their 13 points in the first half. Garrett and Deckman accounting for the touchdowns while Toby Colaw kicked the point. The Trojans registered in the third period on Hollis' touchdown and an extra point by Mascioli.

West Virginia School for the Deaf went down to a 13-12 defeat at the hands of Virginia School for the Deaf of Staunton, Saturday at Romney. A placement kick by Currier was the margin of victory. Trader and Buemi of WVSD and Webb and Ebron of Virginia accounted for the TDs.

Detroit Lions Beaten, 17-10, By Los Angeles

Pass Interceptions Highlight NFL Tilt

DETROIT, Oct. 9 (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams, getting a big lift from three pass interceptions by halfback Willard Sherman, all but knocked the Detroit Lions out of the Western Division race of the National Football League today with a 17-10 victory over 54,836 fans in Briggs Stadium.

It was the Lions' third straight defeat, virtually crushing their bid for a fourth consecutive division title.

The victory gave Los Angeles a 3-0 record and moved the Rams into a first place tie with the surprising Baltimore Colts.

Quarterback Bobby Layne desperately tried to bring Detroit a tie in the final minute of play. He completed four passes for 38 yards and moved the Lions to the Los Angeles 17 before time ran out.

Earlier, Sherman chilled the Lions with his three interceptions. He picked off two of Layne's passes—one of them on the one—and another by Bob Hoernschmeyer.

Quarterback Norm van Brocklin set up the Rams' first touchdown with a 53-yard toss to Elroy Hirsch, then passed 12 yards to Len Boyd for the clincher.

Les Richter kicked both extra points and added a 41-yard field goal. He missed three other attempts from the 21, 37 and 20.

Doak Walker accounted for all of Detroit's scoring. He took an 18-yard touchdown pass from Hoernschmeyer in the final quarter and booted a 14-yard field goal and the lone extra point.

Yankees Head For Far East

Ford Frick Is Among 66 Persons On Tour

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9 (INS)—The New York Yankees, accompanied by the most part by their wives, planned some three-score strong in San Francisco today for a far east tour that will see the American League champions in action in Hawaii, Manila, Okinawa and Japan.

Sixty-six persons in all were included in the tour party that left the Golden Gate city's International Airport aboard a giant Pan American Stratocruiser for Hawaii at 10:10 a. m. (PST).

They were due at Honolulu at approximately 5 p. m., Hawaii time, for the start of a week's series of exhibition games and island recreation before heading farther across the Pacific on their Asian goodwill tour.

On the passenger list was a great portion of the world's top names in baseball—Commissioner Ford Frick, Yankee manager Casey Stengel and co-owner Del Webb, and all of the Yankee player roster except four. Those who were unable to make the trip were Frankie Crosetti, Phil Rizzuto, Joe Collins and Rip Coleman.

Duke Snider, Series Star, Arrives Home

LYNWOOD, Calif., Oct. 9 (AP)—Duke Snider, whose home runs helped the Brooklyn Dodgers win their first World Series, arrived home by automobile today for a special homecoming. Snider got his first look at his new son, Kurt, who was born three weeks ago.

On hand to greet the Dodger slugger was his wife, Beverly, and his other two children, Kevin, 6, and Pamela, 4. Kurt was born here while the Dodgers were in their last week of regular league play but the series delayed the Duke's chance to meet his new son.

Asked what his current plans are, Snider said, "After a long auto trip from coast to coast, I think I'll just sleep for a week."

All except eight states in America restrict the use of fireworks.

Michigan Gets Skyclight After Crushing Good Army Team

Rose Bowl Hopes Skyrack For Ann Arbor's Wolverines

Maryland Cops 4th Straight; Oklahoma Bags 22nd Straight

By WILL GRIMSLEY
(By The Associated Press)

Football biceps are bulging and Rose Bowl hopes are skyrocketing again at Ann Arbor, Mich. The Michigan Wolverines are on another gridiron tear.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's poised, well-heeled forces projected themselves solidly into the national picture and wiped out the darkest blot on the Wolverine shield Saturday when they crushed a good Army team, 26-2.

It was Michigan's first victory over the Cadets from the Hudson, who had won five straight in a series beginning in 1945, and it partially avenged Army's upset triumph in 1949 which cracked a 25-game Wolverine winning streak.

The smashing score established Michigan as the favorite to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl and as a leading contender, along with Maryland and Oklahoma, for the mythical national championship.

Maryland, No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, won its fourth straight game of the season by outclassing Wake Forest, 28-7 while Oklahoma, No. 3 behind Michigan, extended the longest current winning streak to 22 games by shutting out Texas, 20-0.

With one third of the campaign completed, title contenders appear to fall in the following brackets: Best bets — Michigan, Maryland, Oklahoma.

Second tier — Notre-Dame, Georgia Tech, Wisconsin, Navy, Texas Christian.

Third tier — Washington, West Virginia, Duke, UCLA, Army, Southern California.

In smashing Texas on two touchdowns by Tommy McDonald and another by Bob Burris, Oklahoma completed its outside schedule and now should roll easily to an unbeaten season over sub-par conference foes. Maryland also is over the "hump" in its schedule and should sweep through without a serious scare.

Michigan has the riskiest going of football's present "big three." The Wolverines don't play Wisconsin, perhaps the next strongest challenger for Big Ten honors, but must wade through six straight conference rivals, each capable of producing an upset.

Trojans Beaten

Of the top ten teams in the latest poll, Army and Southern California, sixth and tenth respectively, suffered reverses.

Southern Cal. figured possibly the top power of the Pacific Coast, was upended by surprising Washington, 7-0, on an 80-yard pass and lateral play in the final quarter with Corky Lewis scoring. It was the fourth straight victory for the Huskies.

Georgia Tech, No. 4, edged out Louisiana State, 7-0; Notre Dame, No. 5, whipped Miami (Fla.) 14-0; UCLA, No. 7, won from Oregon State, 38-0; Texas Christian, No. 8, smashed Alabama, 21-0, with Jim Swink scoring three touchdowns, and Wisconsin, No. 9, remained unbeaten by edging Purdue, 9-0, on a touchdown by Charley Thomas and a field goal by Paul Schwaiko.

West Virginia, Navy and Duke made strong bids for top ten recognition with impressive, one-sided victories.

Mountaineers Run Wild

A young man with the appropriate name of Jack Rabbits sprinted 99 yards to a touchdown as West Virginia humbled Virginia Military Academy, 47-12. Navy's Sugar Bowl champions displayed speed and power in smashing Pittsburgh, 21-0. Duke, a stout bidder for the Atlantic Coast Conference crown, thumped William & Mary, 47-7.

Michigan's Terry Barr highlighted a number of outstanding individual performances. The Wolverine halfback scored two touchdowns, one on an 82-yard run, to help rout a slippery-fingered Army team which lost the ball eight times on fumbles.

Dennis McGill scored four times in Yale's 46-14 rout of Columbia. George Welsh figured in all three Navy touchdowns, running for one, passing for another and setting up the third.

Buckeyes Triumph

Billy DeGraaf scored three times and kicked two extra points for all of Cornell's points in a 20-7 upset win over Harvard. Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy ran over two touchdowns for Ohio State in beating Illinois, 27-12. A third string fullback, Dick Barstad, scored two touchdowns for Minnesota in an 18-7 triumph over Northwestern.

In the East, Princeton handed Penn its 12th straight setback, 7-0; Brown edged Dartmouth, 7-0; Boston College beat Villanova 28-14; Holy Cross stood off a Colgate rally to win 15-14 and Syracuse rolled over Boston U., 27-12.

In the South, fast-moving Georgia walloped North Carolina 28-7; Mississippi shut out Vanderbilt 13-0; Mississippi State beat Tulane 14-0; Penn State trounced Virginia 20-7; Tennessee licked Chattanooga 13-0; and Auburn and Kentucky played to a 14-14 tie.

Texas Christian continues to look like the best in the Southwest but in other games, Baylor subdued Arkansas 25-20; Rice won over

Michigan Tops INS Grid Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS) — Following are the country's top ten college football teams, with won-lost records in parentheses, as voted by the International News Service panel of experts:

1. Michigan (3-0)
2. Maryland (4-0)
3. Notre Dame (3-0)
4. Oklahoma (3-0)
5. UCLA (3-1)
6. Georgia Tech (4-0)
7. Wisconsin (3-0)
8. Navy (3-0)
9. Texas Christian (4-0)
10. Washington (4-0)

Clemson 21-7; and Texas A&M smothered Nebraska 27-0.

Spartans Top Indians

Michigan State, seemingly improving with age, won an intersectional battle from Stanford 38-14. Also in the Midwest, Iowa defeated Indiana 20-6; Kansas State smashed Marquette 42-0; Wichita whipped Oklahoma A&M 14-7, and Iowa State and Kansas played a 7-7 tie.

California played a 20-20 draw with Washington State and College of Pacific rolled over Idaho 20-0. Colorado A&M barely beat Wyoming 14-13 and Denver stunned Montana 61-13.

Pesky Released

DENVER, Oct. 9 (AP) — Johnny Pesky, former Boston Red Sox baseball star, was released yesterday as coach and utility infielder with the Denver Bears of the American Assn. Pesky joined the Bears last May. He hit .320 as an utility infielder.

Aussies Score Wins

Hoad trounced Atsushi Miyagi, 6-1, 6-2, and Fraser beat Japanese newcomer Jiro Matsuka, 6-2, 6-8, 6-1. In the doubles, the Fraser combination defeated Kamo and Miyagi 6-2, 7-9, 6-2.

Otto Graham, Lavelli Star As Browns Win

Cleveland Defeats Philadelphia, 21-17

Cleveland, Oct. 9 (AP)—Quarterback Otto Graham and end Dante Lavelli a couple of 10-year veterans, teamed up in the final four and a half minutes today to bring the Cleveland Browns from behind to a 21-17 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

A cheering crowd of 43,974 watched a thrilling final quarter which put the Browns a long strike down the road toward their 10th straight pro football division championship.

Four Tied For Lead

Cleveland's victory put the Browns in a four-way tie with Chicago, Washington and Pittsburgh for the National Football League's Eastern Division lead.

The Browns had lost the lead early in the fourth quarter on a fumble by Graham which tackle Frank Wydo picked up and ran 30 yards to the Browns' seven. A four-yard pass from Adrian Burke to Pete Pihos paid off with a touchdown and sent the Eagles ahead 17-14.

There were four minutes and 13 seconds left on the clock when Graham and Lavelli took charge. The Browns were on their own 13. They smashed through the Eagles' famed "suicide seven" defense to move to the Philadelphia eight.

Key plays in the drive were a fourth down, 14 yard pass which Lavelli grabbed on the side boundary at the Eagles' 44. On the next play Graham, back to pass, charged up the right side for 36 yards and could have gone all the way had he not stepped out of bounds.

Win Game On Pass

After a two-yard pitchout gain to Fred Morrison, Graham shot a five-yard touchdown throw to Lavelli who was breaking fast toward the right corner of the end zone. Only a minute and 15 seconds were left when Lou Groza booted the point to send the Browns back on top.

Cleveland scoring—Touchdowns: Graham (2, end run); Modzelewski (28, pass from Graham); Lavelli (5, pass from Graham). Conversions: Groza 3.

Philadelphia scoring — Touchdowns: Giancellini (3, plunge); Pihos (4, pass from Burke). Conversions: Bielski 2. Field goal: Bielski (5).

On The Line

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (INS) — The passing show—

President Eisenhower's heartening recovery is in sharp contrast to Woodrow Wilson's. When Secret Service Chief Col. Ed Starling finally got around to writing about the troubles he had with Wilson, he made a lot of people shiver.

Wilson took up automobile sight-seeing trips as a primary hobby after he suffered the stroke that benched him for most of his last months in office. He insisted that the speed of his top-down touring car be kept to 15 miles an hour no matter on which busy road he chose to ride that day. This was okay with Starling except for one thing: Wilson couldn't abide anybody's passing him.

"Chase that fellow!" he'd order Starling whenever somebody would bug past the slow-moving presidential car. Starling's men would give chase, flag down the startled driver of the offending car and bawl him out—on Wilson's orders.

"I'm going to have myself appointed a justice of the peace so I can fine those fellows," Wilson once told Starling.

Wilson was so fond of one particular car and his daily rides in it that he became indignant when it had to be put in the garage for a check-up. In a pique he ordered a horse-drawn victoria for his outing and insisted that Starling's men ride in electric autos behind him.

Wilson's condition was not told to the American people, Eisenhower's is, many times daily.

Will like run again?

I've been lucky enough to be around with him off and on for ten years but I have no inside information. I don't think anybody has. But a guess would be that bit by bit he'll take command again — or most of it — concentrating mainly on mending the toppled fences of East-West relations. When he feels he has done this, I think he'll say that the job ought to go to a younger man, retire to Gettysburg and stay on call for any future emergency.

Once during the war, while flying to North Africa with a great air transport command pilot named Barney Bridges, a cigar-chewing fellow out of Oklahoma, we passed over a majestically plunging old freighter. It must have been

Howie Fox, Former Major Hurler, Stabbed To Death

Bartender Also Cut By Youths Ordered Out Of Texas Tavern

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 9 (AP)—Former major league pitcher Howie Fox, 34, was stabbed to death early today in a fight with three youths outside the tavern he operated here.

Police said the big, 195-pound hurler, who was with San Antonio of the Texas League during the 1955 season, had ordered the three out of the drinking spot because they created a disturbance.

Bartender Hubert Callahan, 47, was critically stabbed in the fight.

Youths Surrender

While police hunted for the three youths they surrendered themselves at city jail. One of them claimed in a written statement to police that Fox hit him over the head with what he thought was a miniature baseball bat.

Fox, who stood 6 feet 3 inches tall, pitched for the Cincinnati Reds in 1944 through 1946 and again from 1948 through 1951. He was with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1952 and Baltimore Orioles in 1954.

His best year was 1950 with Cincinnati when he won 11 and lost 8. He had signed with the Orioles again for last season but was sent to the San Antonio Missions, the Orioles' farm club in the Texas League. He appeared in 29 games for San Antonio this year but won only three of eight pitching assignments.

A 20-year-old college student booked for questioning in Fox' death, but not charged, said Fox hit him over the head during the fight. He and his two companions, who were held as material witnesses, but not immediately charged, said they did not know Fox was fatally wounded in the affray.

Witnesses said Fox was stabbed three times and died as he crawled toward the door of his tavern.

The youth who claimed he was hit on the head said his companions took him to the City-County Hospital after the fight and that several stitches were taken to close a cut over his right eye.

Homicide detectives hunting the trio had learned one of them spent the night at a downtown hotel. They found bloody clothes in the hotel room and asked the hotel clerk to notify them if the occupant returned.

Instead, said police, the hotel clerk told the three youths when they returned that the detectives were looking for them. The trio said they immediately went to the police and surrendered.

All three said they returned only last night from a week's visit to Mexico.

Eastern Open Title Is Won By Stranahan

Tops Wall By Stroke For $3,000 Top Prize

By LOU PANOS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 9 (AP)—Frank Stranahan won his first golf tournament as a professional today with a one-under-par 71 on the final round for a one-stroke victory over Art Wall Jr. in the $17,500 Eastern Open.

Long off the tee and deadly on his approaches, the former amateur star from Toledo, Ohio, plunked the ball into the cup from 18 inches away on the last hole for the stroke which meant victory and the $3,000 first prize.

Finishes With 280

The wealthy young heir to a spark plug fortune, finally hitting the jackpot in this last event of the 1955 tournament season, escaped several brushes with disaster and finished with 280 for the 72 holes over Baltimore's tough, 6,895-yard Mt. Pleasant Municipal course.

Moments earlier Wall, needing a 30-foot putt to assure himself of at least tie, was dead straight to the hole but inches short and wound up with a 70—281. The 31-year-old pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., had pulled to within one stroke of Stranahan on the sixth hole of the final round but was never able to pull abreast.

Paunchy Ed Oliver, the veteran from Lemont, Ill., came in with a final round 72—282 to nail third place after lying one stroke off at the start of today's round.

In contention until the last four holes, Fred Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., settled for a 71—283 and fourth money.

Then came Ted Kroll of Bethesda, Md., who fashioned a 69 for one of the day's best rounds, tied at 284 with Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, Tenn.

After a 72—285 by Doug Ford of Kiamas Lake, N.Y., came young Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex., 75—286; Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., 73—286; and Ed Furgol, St. Louis, 71—286.

Stranahan, who won several open tournaments as an amateur but turned pro only a year ago, consistently outdrew the other members of his final threesome, Wall and Hawkins. He maintained the advantage on his approaches, seldom leaving himself more than 20 feet from the pin.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—(INS)—How would you like to see June Allyson co-star with Tony Curtis in Dick Powell's first independent picture, "Ride A Tiger"? Well, negotiations are now on. Tony is in Paris and his representatives have been approached to see if he'll be available to team with June after "It Happened One Night" is finished.

John Ericson, who was so good in "Rhapsody," and who has been compared with Gary Cooper and Marlon Brando, both of whom are entirely different, gets himself a fine new job. He'll star in "The Intruder," a Literary Guild book of the month.

When I checked the rumor that Van Johnson was out of "Solid Gold Cadillac," opposite Judy Holliday, I was told that he was never in; that it had just been talk, and that Van is too boyish to play the Washington tycoon.

Judy has arrived at the Beverly Hilton Hotel to start wardrobe preparations and she's lost some of that weight that's been so annoying to her. She's looking for a house to rent.

The pleasantest news from the Santa Barbara "sneak" of "Guys And Dolls" Wednesday is how gracious Marlon Brando was to the teen-agers who, hundreds strong, swarmed on him. (Of course, after the fashion of my old friend, Sam Goldwyn, his "Guys And Dolls")

Today, a clue to why you're not losing weight as fast as you'd like to.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Of all unnecessary ways to gain weight, or to delay losing it, one stands out particularly. It's the eating of too heavy a dinner too late in the evening. Inactivity after the meal makes sure most of it stores up as fat.

Now—that may be exactly the clue you need to better control of your weight. It may very well explain why you aren't losing what you should, despite the limiting of calories. The late dinner may even fit into a diet total for the day and still cause trouble. Not the meal, but the mealtime may be to blame.

Your body slows down the burning of calories as you slow down. The rate is slowest during sleep—if your metabolism is normal, 400 calories per hundred pounds of body weight in eight hours of sleep. Thus a sleeping girl who weighs 115 pounds can burn little more than she got from a fairly light sandwich. It's impossible to eat much just before bedtime, or even before short, lazy evening hours without the risk of accumulating weight.

Eat an early dinner as often as you can and keep active after eating. One excellent way to expend sufficient energy is with the exercise routine you need for figure improvement. If dinner must be late, avoid curling up with a book or lounging through television programs.

And limit the calories sharply for the late dinner. Make up the rest of your correct calorie intake at breakfast and lunch when you have active hours ahead. If you're a hard-working career girl who comes home late to prepare her own dinner, you're wise to schedule your heaviest meal for noon. There's less work to do for a small dinner, and you may need the quiet evening that can safely follow it.

Your body slows down the burning of calories as you slow down. The rate is slowest during sleep—if your metabolism is normal, 400 calories per hundred pounds of body weight in eight hours of sleep. Thus a sleeping girl who weighs 115 pounds can burn little more than she got from a fairly light sandwich. It's impossible to eat much just before bedtime, or even before short, lazy evening hours without the risk of accumulating weight.

Eat an early dinner as often as you can and keep active after eating. One excellent way to expend sufficient energy is with the exercise routine you need for figure improvement. If dinner must be late, avoid curling up with a book or lounging through television programs.

And limit the calories sharply for the late dinner. Make up the rest of your correct calorie intake at breakfast and lunch when you have active hours ahead. If you're a hard-working career girl who comes home late to prepare her own dinner, you're wise to schedule your heaviest meal for noon. There's less work to do for a small dinner, and you may need the quiet evening that can safely follow it.

Baseball At The Park

Fellow called me last week to say he'd been to the ballpark for the first time in four years. It was a terrible experience, he complained. After four years of watching baseball on television, a ballpark was a terrifying place.

"In the first place—all those people," he said. "What are they doing out there—away from their living rooms? And then the game—you can't follow it at all. The players are so far away you can barely see them. A man can't tell Snider from Hodges at that distance. At home I can almost always tell a ball from a strike. In the ballpark I could just barely tell when the pitcher was throwing the ball at the catcher rather than at third base.

"And there's nobody there to tell you all the things you want to know. Like where the guy's from and who he's married to and how many children he has and what he does in the wintertime. To say nothing of his batting average as of last inning, what he did yesterday and how he's the guy who holds the major league record for the most bunt singles in a 12-inning game.

"I don't understand how all those guys can just sit there and watch a ball game without knowing what's going on. Do they know there's activity in the bullpen? No, sir. Not unless they watch it with their own eyes and who wants to do that? I mean we're used to being told these things. Do they ever tell you 'Here comes Casey Stengel out of the dugout and it looks as if we may have a new pitcher'? No, sir. You got to watch Stengel come out of the dugout and you got to figure out that maybe there is going to be a new pitcher all by yourself. I tell you it's rough.

"Of course, the score is pretty easy. They got that up on a big scoreboard and I'm pretty good at reading that because I've seen it so often on television. But how's a man to know that Billy Loes has not won since August, that Duke Snider is expecting another baby and that this is the first time three doubles have been hit in a second inning since the 1926 series. Hell, a man could sit there all afternoon and never find out that Gil Hodges shaves with Gillette superspeed razors."

Well, it's a legitimate complaint. A man does get a lot at home that he's denied at the park. Not once will you hear an announcer out there tell you that the batter has "drilled a foul to the screen" as some of the sportscasters like to say.

I don't know that sporting events are ever going to be entirely satisfactory in color.

I listened to part of the World Series on that old fashion gadget the radio and whoever was broadcasting had a positive genius for obscurity. He would tell you that it was strike two all right, but he was enormously reluctant to reveal who it was strike two on. ## DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

QOGLFLVCS OR GKSSVCCVRR—LON-SKC.

Saturday's Cryptquote: THEY LOVE THEIR LAND, BECAUSE IT IS THEIR OWN, AND SCORN TO GIVE AUGHT OTHER REASON WHY—HALLECK.

Former Korea POW Is Killed In Auto Crash

SFC Ralph Hartman, Petersburg, Victim

A Petersburg, W. Va. soldier who survived 33½ months as a prisoner of the Chinese Communists in Korea was killed early yesterday morning in an automobile accident at Chipley, Ga., while returning to his camp.

Sgt. First Class Ralph William Hartman, 27-year-old son of Emory and Margie (Mongold) Hartman, apparently was killed instantly in the mishap which occurred about 12:30 a. m.

Hartman, who had been in the armed forces for eight years, recently re-enlisted and was stationed at Fort Benjamin in Georgia. Captured in 1950

He was captured by the Reds in Korea in November of 1950, being released September 4, 1953 on the 32nd day of negotiations at Panmunjom.

He arrived back in the United States Sept. 23, and was accorded a royal welcome at Petersburg Court House, led by Post 78, American Legion.

Sgt. Hartman married the former Louella Feaster of Petersburg in Cumberland on December 31, 1953 and was the father of one son, Ralph W. Hartman Jr. He was a member of Petersburg Methodist Church.

Sgt. Hartman was born in Grant County September 3, 1928, and is survived by his widow and son, his grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Mongold of Petersburg, with whom he had made his home for most of his life, and a half-sister, Virginia King of Cumberland.

The body will arrive at the Schaeffer Funeral Home from Georgia some time today or early tomorrow.

Others Hurt In Crashes

Patricia Ann Holliday, six-year-old Romney, W. Va. girl, who was struck by a car on U. S. Route 50 in Romney Saturday, was reported in "fair" condition last night at Memorial Hospital here. She had a bump on her head but no skull fracture was evident. The driver of the car, Herbert C. Shank, 59, Connelville, Pa., was fined $10 for hazardous driving.

In another accident on U. S. Route 50 two miles west of Romney, Carl Hobert Keplinger of Baltimore received undetermined rib injuries. His car struck the eastern end of Mechanicsburg Gap Bridge.

An Alexandria, Va., couple is recuperating at Sacred Heart Hospital from injuries sustained in an accident near the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory Saturday. Charles Logan, 27, received bruises and lacerations of the head and body when the car he was driving went out of control on the Short Gap Road. His wife, June, 25, had a lacerated right eye, right shoulder and brush burns of the face.

Man Threatened At Gunpoint

City police last night reported a local man, apparently "seeking revenge" for some reason, threatened J. D. Wheeler, 515 Hill Top Drive, with a gun yesterday evening.

Police received a call from Wheeler that the man had pointed the gun at him and a neighbor after approaching the Wheeler home about 6 p. m.

Wheeler told Officer Elmer Shank, who investigated, that he was sitting on his porch when the man came up, pointed the revolver at him and said, "I'm going to get even," when the neighbor came up behind him.

The assailant in turn threatened the neighbor before leaving, Wheeler added.

Police, who have a description of the man, said they told Wheeler to swear out a warrant to have the man arrested.

Wheeler told Officer Shank he never saw the man before.

Police Detain Man Who Cut His Wrist

Police said the man was bleeding profusely from a cut on his wrist, apparently self-inflicted with a razor. They said he had been cut at a nearby tavern where the razor blade was located, and had walked from the establishment to the restaurant, where police were called.

Guard Praised At Dedication Of New Armory

McKeldin, Reckord Speak At Frostburg

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and General Milton A. Reckord praised the efforts of the Maryland National Guard in building its organization to its present high standards Saturday night at the formal dedication of the new National Guard Armory in Frostburg.

Gov. McKeldin, pointing out the struggle of the Guard to maintain its status in the face of adverse efforts to destroy it, said the country and the state should be proud of the National Guard and its units, of which Company D, 115th Infantry 129th Division, of Frostburg is a part.

Noting that the new armory is more than just a place for Guardsmen to drill, more than a large hall for townspeople to gather, Gov. McKeldin said it is "a structural tribute to the qualities of initiative and enterprise which have characterized the National Guard since the time of its founding."

The Guard's fine spirit makes it "outstanding among the civilian components of our armed forces," he continued.

Adding that in the early days of the Guard, attendance was slight and the training elementary and incomplete, the Governor said the officers and men of the National Guard worked out and advocated the arrangements for the units to participate in the Regular Army's service school program.

He said the recent reserve forces act of 1955 did not directly affect the National Guard which must be maintained to stand against those who would extend peacetime federal controls over it.

"The Guard must remain fundamentally the militia of the states, ready, as it long has proved itself to be, to lend its great and gallant strength to the federal forces in time of need," the Governor went on. "Frostburg can be proud of this new armory as all Maryland is proud of it and the men who man it." Gov. McKeldin concluded. Gen. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, acknowledged the support of the community and its officials in bringing about the construction of the armory building in Frostburg.

He pointed out the functions of the Guard and its opportunities for young men, adding, however, that the Guard has not been able to maintain its units at full strength because of limited funds.

He praised the policies of the Guard and stressed the fact the Frostburg unit has great responsibility in national defense, and said he realized that the citizens of Frostburg would fully support its splendid organization.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty was master of ceremonies and Chief Judge George Henderson, Mayor Perry Myers, Guard Captain Gerald Reeves, company commander, and a group of visiting National Guard officers appeared on the program.

Flintstone Music Pupils Study Organ-Building

Thanks to youthful curiosity and the guidance of an interested music teacher, a group of eight-graders at Flintstone School are rapidly becoming junior experts on an unusual subject—pipe organ construction.

Most of Miss Alene Billings' general music students had never seen a big pipe organ when they got interested in the subject. None of them had ever seen the complex "insides" of an organ.

The youngsters launched into an intensive five weeks of study on organ construction and organ music, under Miss Billings' supervision.

During that time they studied pipes, couplers, stops, pistons, foot pedals and manuals. They saw movies showing how the metal pipes are shaped and polished and how the parts finally are assembled into the completed organ.

Then they studied such things as shapes and lengths of pipes, and immersed themselves in such unfamiliar terms as Bourdons and Resultants.

They also got some technical help from W. E. Capaldi, Cumberland physiotherapist who helped to build the world's biggest organ, at Atlantic City, N. J.

They heard E. Power Briggs' recordings of organ music, and eventually became familiar with such organ classics as Bach's "Toccata in D. Minor."

Finally, the other day, Miss Billings brought the 25 youngsters into town to study a couple of real organs. They went to Centre Street Methodist Church and crawled around the insides of the big pipe organ to their hearts' content. They made pages of notes, then sat back to hear Miss Billings and Mrs. Kenneth Beck, the church organist, play a group of selections.

At Allegany High School, where Miss Billings formerly taught, they studied the workings of an electric organ, then heard selections by the Allegany dance orchestra, concert and string orchestras, under direction of S. Lue Sykes.

Afterwards, their notebooks full, they headed back to school to round out their study by completing reports on their field trip, and to get ready for the next project.

Laymen Conduct Episcopal Service

Two laymen conducted the 11 a. m. service yesterday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church in the absence of the rector, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, who conducted a parish life conference elsewhere in the state.

James Alfred Avirett, who is a licensed lay reader, conducted the morning prayer service and read the Scripture. Instead of a sermon, Robert Little Ebert, who is training to be a lay reader, read the letter issued by the House of Bishops at the general convention in Honolulu last month. Canon law of the Protestant Episcopal Church requires that the letter be read to each congregation within 30 days of its receipt.

The letter emphasized the need for renewed missionary work in Asia, where except for the Philippines, Christians represent only a small percentage of the population.

Md. Land Week Events Stress This Section

Allegany Program Planned Thursday

This is Maryland Land Week, during which a special effort is made each year to inform the people of the state what has been done and what still needs to be done to halt the destruction of land as a result of abuse, misuse, erosion and lack of proper drainage.

Annually a different section of the state is singled out for emphasis during Maryland Land Week. This year it is Western Maryland and a different program is planned each day from tomorrow through Friday.

Tomorrow the program will be in Frederick County, where tours of the Thrasher and R. N. Miller farms are planned before and after lunch on the Thrasher farm. Wednesday the attention will be focused upon Washington County, where the farm for the State Reformatory for Males at Breathedsville will be inspected. After lunch at Fort Frederick there will be a tour of orchards in the Hancock area starting at 1:30 p. m.

Local Program Thursday

Then on Thursday the scene shifts here to Allegany County where activities are scheduled in the Union Grove area from 10 a. m. until 4:30 p. m.

Floyd Buser is chairman of the Land Week committee which will begin Thursday's program with a land judging contest at 10 a. m. on the Union Grove farm of Ralph W. Ferguson. Four 10-boy teams of agriculture students will compete. They will represent Flintstone and Oldtown high schools in this county and Northern and Southern high schools of Garrett County.

During the noon-to-1 p. m. hour members of the Union Grove Homemakers Club will serve luncheon at the camp grounds. A log bucking contest will highlight that period. Assistant District Forester Harry Hartman hopes to pit the fastest log cutters among the boys and men to see which can take the speed championship and a $10 cash prize.

Turkey-Calling Show

Ronnie McPhail, who is enrolled at Piney Plains School, will give a turkey calling demonstration during a wildlife program between 1 and 1:30 p. m. Thursday. Then from 1:30 until 3:30 p. m., the country and city folks who visit the Union Grove camp ground will participate in a tour of Ferguson's farm to see contour strip cropping, diversion terraces, pasture improvements, forestry practices and poultry management.

A 30-minute program at the camp grounds, starting at 3:30 p. m., will wrap up the day's activities except for the announcement of the winners in the land judging contest.

Then on Friday, the Land Week tour heads west again to Garrett County where the day's activities start at 9 a. m. when the visitors leave the William James Hotel in Oakland. There will be lunch at the Pleasant Valley 4-H Camp and tours to farms as well as to Deep Creek Lake and Swallow Falls. Foster Yost of Accident is chairman of the Garrett County Land Week committee.

Interest Heavy In Upcoming Flood Project

At least 25 construction firms have secured plans from the Corps of Engineers for a flood control contract which includes channel improvement on Wills Creek and the Viaduct Pumping Station, it was learned yesterday.

Bids on the project should be sent to the Washington District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, according to Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde.

The bids will be opened in Washington on October 27 at 2:30 p. m. Mayor Roy W. Eves was advised recently.

It is understood that all major construction firms in this area have secured plans for the contract, which will push the $17,000,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection program to past the halfway mark.

Rotary Club To Meet

The Cumberland Rotary Club will meet tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at the YMCA. Invitations have been sent out to the presidents of the other service clubs to attend the meeting.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Trinity Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Louis P. Chastain. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

My sheep wandered through all the mountains, and upon every high hill; yea, my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them. Ezekiel 34:6.

The Other Man

A man camping with friends in the Rocky Mountains started out for a little stroll. He was a so-called "tenderfoot" and did not realize the great vastness into which he was walking. He admired a giant tree, stood entranced by a leaping mountain stream, paused on a carpet of exquisite moss or stopped to listen to the forest sounds. Then suddenly there came a realization that threw him into a panic. He was lost—hopelessly lost. Absorbed in the forest's treasures he had kept no sense of distance or direction. He was alone in a confusion of mountain peaks, canyons, bears, and the unknown. He tramped until it began to get dark. He grew cold, hungry, and frightened. Can you imagine, then, his joy at finding, just ahead of him, a little log cabin! He went to the door and knocked. No one came. Then he tried the latch. To his surprise it lifted. He entered and found himself in the comfortable little cabin of a forest ranger. There was a big fireplace, a cot, an easy chair, a table with books and writing materials, and a cupboard well stocked with canned goods. On the wall was tacked a card which read, "Help yourself! There's a tin box on the mantle if you want to help keep up the supply." It was signed, "Cordially yours—The Other Man."

Isn't that a splendid way to live the gospel of Jesus Christ. "Cordially yours—The Other Man!" Our text says, "My sheep wandered through all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them." And in the last verse of the chapter we read, "And ye my flock—are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord God." If we were to interpret our text literally it would be true that oftentimes sheep are lost in the mountains and there are none to seek after them. But how much more meaningful it becomes when we give it the symbolic interpretation which we find in our scripture reading by studying the entire chapter from which the text is taken. Said Jesus: "How much then is a man better than a sheep?" God's people have wandered through all the mountains of life with their jagged peaks of temptation, their treacherous ravines of despair, and "upon every high hill" of life's allurements and deceits. Men are "scattered upon all the face of the earth" amid its pleasures which promise so much and yield so little; amid its sorrows, its pains, and its diversions—far from the face of God—and there are, comparatively speaking, "none to seek after them."

Like the man lost in the wilderness of the mountains, humanity is lost in the entangling snares of the world. Their souls are lost. And the great question is this: Are you willing, am I willing (We who dwell in the comfort and security of God's love) to let our lives say (like the card in the cabin), "Help yourselves to this comfort, this love this salvation. Cordially yours—The Other Man? Are we willing to make the saving power of Jesus Christ so real and so full of help that the wanderer will long to accept the shelter offered to him?"

The great need of the world today is more of the acceptance of Jesus Christ in the hearts of men. We have great evangelists like Billy Graham who have a power that seems to draw scores to the scores to the realization of the great lack in their lives—but there is just as great a mission for you and for me. It is not only our privilege, but our duty to point the way come in contact. We need a revival of conversational religion. We need to tell others what Christ means to us.

Police received a call from Wheeler that the man had pointed the gun at him and a neighbor after approaching the Wheeler home about 6 p. m.

Wheeler told Officer Elmer Shank, who investigated, that he was sitting on his porch when the man came up, pointed the revolver at him and said, "I'm going to get even," when the neighbor came up behind him.

The assailant in turn threatened the neighbor before leaving. Wheeler added.

Police, who have a description of the man, said they told Wheeler to swear out a warrant to have the man arrested.

Wheeler told Officer Shank he never saw the man before.

Two much-traveled teen-agers from Elkton in Cecil County were captured yesterday in Hagerstown after a wild spree in which they stole four automobiles in two states and broke into the Taztee Freeze stand at the foot of Big Savage Mountain on U. S. 40.

State Police said the boys, one 15 and the other 16, started their travels Thursday when they stole a car at Elkton and drove it to Claysville, Pa. There they stole a second car and headed back east to the Taztee Freeze stand just west of the Frostburg city limits. They broke into the place and stole $3, some milk and crackers.

Guard Praised At Dedication Of New Armory

McKeldin, Reckord Speak At Frostburg

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin and General Milton A. Reckord praised the efforts of the Maryland National Guard in building its organization to its present high standards Saturday night at the formal dedication of the new National Guard Armory in Frostburg.

Gov. McKeldin, pointing out the struggle of the Guard to maintain its status in the face of adverse efforts to destroy it, said the country and the state should be proud of the National Guard and its units, of which Company D, 115th Infantry 129th Division, of Frostburg is a part.

Noting that the new armory is more than just a place for Guardsmen to drill, more than a large hall for townspeople to gather, Gov. McKeldin said it is "a structural tribute to the qualities of initiative and enterprise which have characterized the National Guard since the time of its founding."

The Guard's fine spirit makes it "outstanding among the civilian components of our armed forces," he continued.

Adding that in the early days of the Guard, attendance was slight and the training elementary and incomplete, the Governor said the officers and men of the National Guard worked out and advocated the arrangements for the units to participate in the Regular Army's service school program.

He said the recent reserve forces act of 1955 did not directly affect the National Guard which must be maintained to stand against those who would extend peacetime federal controls over it.

"The Guard must remain fundamentally the militia of the states, ready, as it long has proved itself to be, to lend its great and gallant strength to the federal forces in time of need," the Governor went on. "Frostburg can be proud of this new armory as all Maryland is proud of it and the men who man it." Gov. McKeldin concluded.

Gen. Reckord, adjutant general of Maryland, acknowledged the support of the community and its officials in bringing about the construction of the armory building in Frostburg.

He pointed out the functions of the Guard and its opportunities for young men, adding, however, that the Guard has not been able to maintain its units at full strength because of limited funds.

He praised the policies of the Guard and stressed the fact the Frostburg unit has great responsibility in national defense, and said he realized that the citizens of Frostburg would fully support its splendid organization.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty was master of ceremonies and Chief Judge George Henderson, Mayor Perry Myers, Guard Captain Gerald Reeves, company commander, and a group of visiting National Guard officers appeared on the program.

Flintstone Music Pupils Study Organ-Building

Thanks to youthful curiosity and the guidance of an interested music teacher, a group of eight-graders at Flintstone School are rapidly becoming junior experts on an unusual subject—pipe organ construction.

Most of Miss Alene Billings' general music students had never seen a big pipe organ when they got interested in the subject. None of them had ever seen the complex "insides" of an organ.

The youngsters launched into an intensive five weeks of study on organ construction and organ music, under Miss Billings' supervision.

During that time they studied pipes, couplers, stops, pistons, foot pedals and manuals. They saw movies showing how the metal pipes are shaped and polished and how the parts finally are assembled into the completed organ.

Then they studied such things as shapes and lengths of pipes, and immersed themselves in such unfamiliar terms as Bourdon and Resultants.

They also got some technical help from W. E. Capaldi, Cumberland physiotherapist who helped to build the world's biggest organ, at Atlantic City, N. J.

They heard E. Power Briggs' recordings of organ music, and eventually became familiar with such organ classics as Bach's "Toccata in D Minor."

Finally, the other day, Miss Billings brought the 25 youngsters into town to study a couple of real organs. They went to Centre Street Methodist Church and crawled around the insides of the big pipe organ to their hearts' content.

They made pages of notes, then sat back to hear Miss Billings and Mrs. Kenneth Beck, the church organist, play a group of selections.

At Allegany High School, where Miss Billings formerly taught, they studied the workings of an electric organ, then heard selections by the Allegany dance orchestra, concert and string orchestras, under direction of S. Lua Syckes.

Afterwards, their notebooks full, they headed back to school to round out their study by completing reports on their field trip, and to get ready for the next project.

He entered and found himself in the comfortable little cabin of a forest ranger. There was a big fireplace, a cot, an easy chair, a table with books and writing materials, and a cupboard well stocked with canned goods. On the wall was tacked a card which read, "Help yourself! There's a tin box on the mantle if you want to help keep up the supply." It was signed, "Cordially yours—The Other Man."

Isn't that a splendid way to live the gospel of Jesus Christ. "Cordially yours—The Other Man!" Our text says, "My sheep wandered through the mountains, and upon every high hill: Yea my flock was scattered upon all the face of the earth, and none did search or seek after them." And in the last verse of the chapter we read, "And ye my flock—are men, and I am your God, saith the Lord God." If we were to interpret our text literally it would be true that oftentimes sheep are lost in the mountains and there are none to seek after them. But how much more meaningful it becomes when we give it the symbolic interpretation which we find in our scripture reading by studying the entire chapter from which the text is taken. Said Jesus: "How much then is a man better than a sheep?" God's people have wandered through all the mountains of life with their jagged peaks of temptation, their treacherous ravines of despair, and "upon every high hill" of life's allurements and deceptions. Men are "scattered upon all the face of the earth" amid its pleasures which promise so much and yield so little; amid its sorrows, its pains, and its diversions—far from the face of God—and there are, comparatively speaking, "none to seek after them."

Like the man lost in the wilderness of the mountains, humanity is lost in the entangling snares of the world. Their souls are lost. And the great question is this: Are you willing, am I willing (We who dwell in the comfort and security of God's love) to let our lives say (like the card in the cabin), "Help yourselves to this comfort, this love this salvation. Cordially yours—The Other Man?" Are we willing to make the saving power of Jesus Christ so real and so full of help that the wanderer will long to accept the shelter offered to him?

The great need of the world today is more of the acceptance of Jesus Christ in the hearts of men. We have great evangelists like Billy Graham who have a power that seems to draw scores to the scores to the realization of the great lack in their lives—but there is just as great a mission for you and for me. It is not only our privilege, but our duty to point the way come in contact. We need a revival of conversational religion. We need to tell others what Christ means to us.
